43 Are Indicted in Warfare Upon Gambling

FURTHER EVIDENCE GIVEN GRAND JURY TODAY BY BOYKIN

Walk Miller, Fight Promoter, Among Those Indicted for Operating Gambling House.

OVER 400 WITNESSES SUMMONED IN PROBE

Alleged Gambling Houses Located on Peachtree, West Peachtree, Broad and Forsyth Streets.

With the indictment by the Fulton county grand jury Monday of thirty-three men on charges of "gaming," and nine on charges of operating gambling houses, Solicitor General John A. Boykin was busy reorganizing his forces throughout the afternoon and night for his third drastic attack upon Atlanta gamblers, which takes place today in a continued special session of the grand jury.

No sooner had the grand jury room been cleared Monday afternoon than the solicitor and a corps of assistants took positions behind the great table and began examination of a seemingly unending line of witnesses. The grand jury had adjourned shortly after noon, announcing it would reconvene this morning at 10 o'clock. Throughout the afternoon and into the night the solicitor questioned witnesses after witnesses concerning gambling conditions in the city, for the purpose of gaining evidence to be introduced before the grand jurors today.

Walk Miller Indicted. Among those indicted Monday for operating gambling houses was Walk Miller, well-known prize-fight promoter. Miller was indicted jointly with Fred Haverthorn and R. L. Knight. The three were charged with maintaining an apartment at 87 1-2 Peachtree street, in which it is alleged gambling tables were operated. W. R. Mills, brother of Ed Mills, who met death at the hands of Floyd Woodward, notorious Atlanta "bunch" king, who is a fugitive from justice, was indicted by the grand jury for operating a gambling house. Mills is alleged to have been one of the operators of a gambling house at 12 1-2 North Broad street.

A. N. Christopoulos was indicted for renting the apartment in which Mills and four others are said to have maintained the gambling house. It was the raid on this house more than two weeks ago that marked the first real step in the solicitor general's campaign. Six men were arrested and placed under bonds of $2,000, charged with operating a gambling house. Ten men were arrested later and charged with "gaming" in the place at 12 1-2 North Broad street. Indictments were returned in all cases. A half score of the indictments returned Monday grew out of alleged gambling at the same place.

List of Those Indicted. The following men were indicted Monday: George Bird, operating a gambling house at 539 1-2 Whitehall street.

Georgian Found Lying in Ditch With Neck Broken

Hughie Halligan, 27, Discovers Half Submerged After 2-Day Hunt.

Baxley, Ga., October 27.—The body of Hughie Halligan, 27, was found face downward in a ditch near here today, following his disappearance Saturday night. His neck was broken and bruises about the body and face led the family to suspect he had met with foul play. Saturday in company with several acquaintances, Halligan left his father's house here.

A coroner's jury is now investigating the man's death.

The body, when found, was in a crouching position, half submerged in rain water that had partly filled the ditch over Sunday. His face was buried in the mud.

The Halligan family is well-known in this vicinity.

This was the second death in Appling county under similar circumstances within the past week. An aged unidentified negro was found in a ditch near the same spot last Wednesday. An overturned wheel barrow filled with mud was found about 100 yards away from her. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by unknown causes in her case.

SNATCHES MASKS FROM SUGAR MEN HIDDEN IN G. O. P.

La Follette Puts Spotlight on Beet Barons He Says Tried to Coerce Culbertson.

Baltimore, Md., October 27.—Describing President Coolidge as the "silk and satin of the system," Senator Robert M. La Follette, independent presidential candidate, charged the white house with yielding to the power of the sugar interests in his speech here Monday night.

He said that the failure of Coolidge to act on a report of the tariff commission, recommending a reduction in sugar duties, would, if persisted in until March 4, cost consumers $30,000,000.

"Sugar" War Council Meets. He charged that sugar interests arranged a conference through Senator Smoot, who called Vice Chairman Culbertson of the commission to his office at the capital while the case was before the commission, in an unsuccessful attempt to influence him in favor of the sugar interests.

William V. Hodges, now treasurer of the republican national committee and attorney for Colorado beet-sugar interests, was present, as were Senator Phipps and Representative Timberlake, of Colorado, and Senator Smoot, of Utah, a stockholder in the Utah-Idaho Sugar company, and several representatives of various sugar interests, La Follette said.

"There is no difference in ethics between this attempt to coerce a member of the tariff commission and an attempt to coerce a judge in a civil criminal case," La Follette declared. This attempt, La Follette added.

War Inevitable If League Fails Council Is Told

Anglo-Turkish Row Over Irak Frontier Serious, Says Parmoor.

Geneva, October 27.—Armed conflict between England and Turkey is inevitable unless the league of nations can dispose of the argument over the Anglo-Turkish frontier in the Near East, Lord Parmoor, British delegate to the league, told the council Monday.

A special session of the league council is in progress to determine the boundary between Turkey and the English mandate area, Irak.

English troops in Irak have been instructed temporarily to withhold an attack against the Turkish positions which was ordered on October 9.

The council heard the Turkish and English arguments Monday and asked them until Wednesday to devise a peaceful solution of the problem.

ARREST IMMINENT FOR DRIVER OF CAR WHICH HIT WOMAN

One Theory Held Is That Machine of Liquor Runner Struck and Killed Mrs. Moore.

LOANED AUTOMOBILE NOT YET RETURNED

Man Who Borrowed Car of A. H. Power Also Sought by Police for Extensive Questioning.

Confident that the identity of the automobile driver, who early Sunday morning fatally injured Mrs. Josephine E. Moore, wife of Captain M. W. Moore, instructor at the Georgia Military academy, will be established within the next 24 hours, city police said late Monday night that an arrest in the case was imminent and that evidence already obtained would go far toward establishing the identity of both occupants of the death car.

Two Channels of Information. Two definite channels of investigation were followed by the officers assigned to the case. The first of these was based upon the theory that liquor runners were responsible for the fatal crash at North Jackson and Pine streets.

The second angle of the probe was based upon a report made to police by A. H. Power, of 297 Cooper street, who declared that he had loaned his automobile, a description of which fitted that of the machine which caused Mrs. Moore's death, to a man late Saturday and that the car had not been returned to him at the time of the fatal crash Sunday.

Information that had come to his department Monday, but he admitted that early developments were expected, including the arrest of one or more suspects.

Mrs. Moore was killed after the automobile in which she and her husband were driving had figured in two accidents.

2 Wounded Men May Die; Murder Is Charged To Arthur Morelle; 3 Other Arrests Expected.

Moultrie, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—As the aftermath of a bloody fight, staged during a slashing rain storm in the roadway near Berlin last night, one Colquitt county man is dead, three are suffering from knife wounds, one is in jail on a charge of murder and three other arrests are expected tonight.

Lonnie Kent, 22, was killed by a blow on the head; Buford Croft, Jim Copeland and Arthur Morelle were cut, and Morelle is charged with the murder of Kent. He was brought to jail here late today when doctors said he could be moved without danger.

The men had just left an abandoned barn when the fight began, officers say. Morelle struck Kent over the head with a heavy limb from a pine tree, but says he had to because Kent, who had cut him once, was again advancing on him with a knife, police declare. Morelle refused to say what caused the disagreement. Copeland and Croft also declined to comment. According to the sheriff at least seven men engaged in the fight.

Kent was left lying where he fell and it was more than three hours before he was found by a man living in the neighborhood. He lived until 4 o'clock this morning.

Officers are still at work on the case, and an inquest will be held Tuesday morning, it was announced this afternoon when investigators abandoned the theory that the fight was the outgrowth of a gambling quarrel. It was believed by local police, however, that at least two more, probably three, persons will be arrested before the coroner's jury starts its hearing at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Hubby-Grandpa of Child, 14, Boasts of His Young Notions

86-YEAR OLD ROMEO AND BRIDE ELOPED

Burlington, Ohio, October 27.—"It was love at first sight." With these simple, explanatory words, A. C. Campbell, 86-year-old farmer of Burlington, returned to his home Monday night in company with his bride, Mattie Catherine Walling, a 14-year-old girl who is his granddaughter, his step-daughter, to be precise.

Many's the day that little Mattie had bounced upon the knee of Grandpa Campbell—"Ceeli," they called the aged Romeo when he paused for conversation at the general store. But now, Mattie, her hair scarcely out of braids and not even sufficiently mature for a boyish bob, is a bride and glories in the fact.

"We had a big time in Ashland, Ky., after the wedding," Mattie, back home with grandpa, assured the town.

When 86-year-old Ceeli disappeared from home with Baby Mattie last Friday the authorities of Kentucky and Ohio were asked to search for him. Both states were alerted. Amusement, consternation and abuse greeted their search. He was turned to Burlington, but no one, yet, has decided what can be done about it. Mattie, she of 14 years, is the daughter of Green Walling, Walling's wife, stepmother of the child, is the daughter of Campbell—Campbell of 86 years. And Campbell, as Albert Loeb dies. Father of "Dickie" Loeb succumbs to illness and shock.

Chicago, October 27.—Albert Loeb, vice president of Sears Roebuck & Co., and the father of Richard Loeb, who, with Nathan Leopold, Jr., killed Robert Franks, died shortly after 9 o'clock tonight at the family's home here.

Mr. Loeb had been ill for many months. His doctors had feared that the shock of his son's confession in the Franks case and the subsequent court proceedings, which resulted in life sentences for the two youths, would be more than Mr. Loeb's weakened constitution could stand, and he was taken to the family's summer home at Charlevoix, Mich. He had returned from Charlevoix about two weeks ago.

WALLACE'S BODY IS TAKEN WEST

Funeral Train Leaves for Des Moines Following Services at White House. Burial Wednesday.

Washington, October 27.—Funeral services for Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, were held in the east room of the white house today, and tonight the body, in care of friends, is being carried back to Des Moines, Iowa, Mr. Wallace's home, for burial there Wednesday.

The funeral party left here at 3:30 p. m. and will arrive in Des Moines late tomorrow. Wednesday the body will lie in state at the Iowa state capitol for several hours prior to the funeral services to be held in that city. State business will be suspended while the body reposes in the capitol building.

Secretary Work with Family. Accompanying Mrs. Wallace on the journey started from here this afternoon are her two daughters, Miss Ruth, who was with her in Washington at the time of her husband's death, and Mrs. Angus McLaughlin, of Birmingham, Mich.; her three sons, James A. and Harry A., of Des Moines, and John, of St. Petersburg, Fla.; and John P. Wallace, general of the service, is abroad. Secretary Work, who was designated by President Coolidge to serve as his special representative at the funeral services, was a member of the funeral party, which also included Acting Secretary of Agriculture Gore, James H. Doolittle, general of the service, and Mrs. Davis, close friends of the family, and Major James F. Coughlin, Jr., and Dr. Joel T. Boone, white house physician.

DARES COOLIDGE TO OPPOSE BORAH OR NORRIS RACES

Senator Glass Declares Both Solons Desire To Change Rules Governing Court Decisions.

FEAR OF LA FOLLETTE UNFOUNDED, HE SAYS

Security of American Institutions Not Menaced Even if Independent Race Were Not Futile.

Wilmington, Del., October 27.—Declaring he was seeking to "test the honesty" of republican party leaders, Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, challenged President Coolidge in a campaign speech here tonight to come out in opposition to the reelection of Senators Borah, of Ohio; Norris, of Nebraska, and other republicans who favor changes in the status of the supreme court.

Unless the republican managers do so, said the Virginia senator, their "persistent efforts to project an issue of constitutional security" in the campaign must be regarded as "devoid of honest purposes." He attacked particularly the recent utterance of Secretary Hughes regarding the La Follette court issue.

Praising John W. Davis, Mr. Glass declared that "with a single exception it may temperately be said that no man has ever been nominated by any party or elected president who was better fitted for the grave responsibilities of government."

La Follette's Frankness. The senator declared he had no agreement with the policies advocated by Senator La Follette "except honest government," but added that "whatever his vagaries, some of the eminent republican critics might with profit imitate his frankness."

Republican attacks on the La Follette court proposal, he said, were only "ret hounds" drawn across the trail.

HALDEMAN DIES OF SUDDEN STROKE

Funeral for Commander of Confederate Veterans To Be Held Wednesday in Louisville.

Louisville, October 27.—General W. B. Haldeeman, 78, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, wearing the honors of long, active years, tonight had answered the final roll call and gone to rejoin those comrades in gray whose cause he had served since it first called him, a boy of 16, from his school books.

General Haldeeman, at one time part owner of The Courier-Journal here, died late today from a heart attack in the emergency hospital at Churchill Downs. He had been stricken a half-hour before while watching the races, his favorite sport.

Seated in a box, surrounded by scenes and friends he loved, the white-haired old soldier complained of feeling ill, and suggested he should go home. He was assisted from the box but before he could reach his automobile the attack had so overcome him that it was necessary to call for a stretcher to carry him to the track hospital.

"I am nauseated," he murmured as he was borne into the hospital. And those were his last words.

General Haldeeman, who had valiantly resisted the infirmities of age, suffered an attack about two weeks ago while addressing the United Daughters of the Confederacy at their state convention in Frankfort. He was similarly stricken last Thursday at Churchill Downs, but he had returned to the races, apparently completely recovered.

Fall "Misdealt" To Construction Men, Is Charge

Said "Law" Barred Them From Job But Wouldn't Say Which Law.

Los Angeles, Cal., October 27.—Albert B. Fall, as secretary of the interior, discriminated against construction companies and in favor of oil concerns when it was decided to build oil storage facilities at Pearl Harbor. This charge was brought out Monday afternoon by counsel for the government in its suit to break leases and contracts held by the Pan-American oil companies, when Edward C. Finney testified concerning a letter written by Fall to the Chicago Bridge and Iron works, in which the secretary barred construction companies from an opportunity to bid on the contemplated work.

Fall's letter was in answer to a query from the Chicago concern asking why it had not been invited to send in bids on the Pearl Harbor project.

The secretary stated that he was prohibited by law from accepting proposals from any interests other than oil companies.

The Chicago Bridge and Iron Works' letter was received by Fall on April 13, 1922.

The secretary left Washington soon afterward and a message from Chicago asking Fall what law he referred to went unanswered, the witness said.

SOVIET MYSTERY CLOUDS BRITISH ELECTION ISSUES

MacDonald Believes Letter Calling for Communist Revolt Is Genuine But Holds for 'Fair Play'

London, October 27.—The shadow of communism has obscured domestic and foreign issues alike during the last days of the British general election campaign.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald has made his expected statement regarding the letter of Gregory Zinovieff, president of the communist international, in which the Russian leader ordered British communists to prepare for the overthrow of the British government.

MacDonald, in a speech Monday, declared he believed the letter to be genuine, despite denials from the Russian representative in London.

Defends Russian Treaty. But in the face of this declaration, MacDonald defended the Russian treaty which the labor government negotiated with Moscow and which awaits ratification in London. He told a campaign crowd at Cardiff that such a treaty is essential.

"We will give Russia fair play, whatever happens," the premier said. "It is essential that we make Russia a co-operating nation, not a pariah."

"It is no use to talk about Russia while our tempers are inflamed. Russia will baffle us unless we agree somehow to be friendly."

REPUBLICANS SEND SPECIAL COUNSEL TO DEFEND PARTY

G. O. P. Solicitor Admits Raising $900,000 in New York—Says Hodges Got Money.

LA FOLLETTE TARGET FOR COUNTER SHOT

Republican Lawyer Says He Can Prove "Devious Course" of Funds for Independents.

Washington, October 27.—Republicans, apparently stirred up at the eleventh hour, have placed representatives of their interests at the Borah campaign fund investigation whose first act was to counter with a charge that the La Follette forces have spent money that does not appear upon their official books, a charge made against the republicans some days ago.

Weymouth Kirkland, from the Chicago headquarters, appearing at the investigation Monday, asked that he be allowed to cross-examine witnesses, and emphasized that he came not to defend the republican national committee but to aid in the investigation.

Cites Coercion by Labor. "We have evidence of huge expenditures of the La Follette-Wheeler campaign that do not pass through the regular channels, and are not on the books of John W. Nelson in Chicago," he told the committee. "We also have lots of evidence showing coercion on the part of different labor unions in an effort to tell men how to vote."

After Kirkland had made his statement the committee examined Guy B. Emerson, chairman of the contributions committee in New York, who spent nearly all afternoon on the stand, giving a detailed picture of how he had raised approximately $500,000 among professional men, business interests and the various trades, under a severe and insistent grilling from Frank P. Walsh, counsel for Senator La Follette.

Go Back to Chicago. Senator Borah, during the session, ordered subpoenas issued for the state chairman of New York, New Jersey, Illinois and Ohio, whose testimony is desired by La Follette counsel. Borah also indicated that the committee would go to Chicago again to take testimony from William M. Butler, chairman, and William M. Hodges, treasurer, of the republican national committee. Samuel Undermyer, the other La Follette lawyer, had suggested that the committee send representatives there, conducting hearings in both cities at the same time.

The committee, in an executive session after the hearings had been concluded, decided to send Senator Borah and Senator Shipstead to Chicago Tuesday, to hear Butler and Hodges. Undermyer will accompany them to represent Senator La Follette. Senators Caraway and Bayard will remain here to carry on the investigation at the capital.

Undermyer asked that the committee be allowed to examine the records of the La Follette campaign.

"BUSINESS" MAKES MOST OF INCOME TAX PUBLICITY

New York, October 27.—Big business has decided to make the most of the publication of the income tax returns and at the same time continue vigorously to protest it. This was indicated Monday when a big downtown bank requested the customs officials to report the amount of income tax paid by each of its 9,000 depositors.

This is the first big metropolitan institution to take advantage of the new law, but many are expected to follow suit. The information on depositors' incomes will be valuable to officials in checking up on customers in preparation for future financial statements made to them on requests for loans.

There will be little chance for a customer to "bluff" the loan department of a bank under the new system, bank officials say.

PRESIDENT-ELECT OF MEXICO VISITS COOLIDGE TODAY

Washington, October 27.—Arrangements have been made for the white house, through the state department, for a visit Friday afternoon by General Plutarco Elias Calles, president-elect of Mexico, with President Coolidge. hold all-day and evening sessions, stating that he had a mass of evidence which he wanted to present before the election, but no action to this end was taken by the committee.

Kirkland, in presenting his charge, said that he would furnish a list of witnesses to testify in support of it. Walsh said he would be glad to have any such evidence. The attorney for the republican committee insisted that his committee be given an equal amount of time with others to present its side of the case, to which Under-aver answered that the republicans had not yet submitted a single witness to the committee, while Walsh said the republican committee had "stepped on its rights."

Emerson, in the course of his prolonged cross-examination, stated that contributions from New York now total about $800,000. He is vice president of the Bankers Trust company, of New York.

Gave Money to Hodges.

Describing his part in the campaign, he said that he had formed organizations all over the country in various businesses and trades, and that women's organizations in nearly every state had done effective work. All of the money collected had been turned over to Hodges, he said.

He formed organizations in between 100 and 150 groups of professional, busness and industrial lines, he testified, and had based his organization on that used by him in Liberty loan drives. Approximately 50,000 contributions had come in as a result of his work, he said.

Emerson was grilled very closely by Walsh as to how he had come to take up the work, and of his methods in securing names of prospective contributors. He said that Hodges had asked him to head the drive. Upon request by Walsh, he submitted the names of the various men in New York who had suggested names of bankers, business men and others who could aid him in his campaign.

No Goal Was Set.

Emerson testified that Hodges had not set any specific amount to be raised in this campaign, but said that the treasurer of the republican national committee had expressed a desire to have the appeal as widespread as possible and to discourage large contributions.

"Have you any evidence to show that contributions were refused by the republican committee because they were large?" Senator Caraway asked.

Emerson admitted that he had not, but said the numbers of contributors had increased from 22,000 in 1916 to 80,000 or more this year.

Walsh read a letter sent out by Emerson's committee to the fur trade urging contributions to "make preparations for the election of Coolidge and Dawes in the doubtful western states."

Emerson said he had not seen the letter before it was sent out.

The Senator Bayard, of Delaware, produced a letter of the committee urging engineers to make their checks "as large as possible" to refute Emerson's statement that Hodges was seeking to make contributions "as widespread as possible" and not to solicit from rich men merely.

L. M. Smith, Fred Haychert, and R. L. Bank, jointly indicted for operating a gambling house at 871-2 Peachtree street.

The following were indicted on charges of "gaming": Aaron Abelson, Bill Crafton, A. N. David, B. E. Elman, P. W. Finck, R. S. George, Harry Goldberg, Mose Gold, Glenn House, Bill Hampton, K. T. 400 Witnesses Called.

The session of the grand jury Monday was called at Friday's regular meeting, when the solicitor made known the volume of evidence and the great number of witnesses. More than 400 witnesses milled around in the corridors adjoining the grand jury room throughout the session. In the afternoon, which was declared to be the largest number of witnesses ever summoned to appear at the Fulton county court house, were men representing every phase and stratum of life in the city.

A large number of women also were called to repeat in many instances, conversations overheard in hallways of some of Atlanta's fashionable apartment houses and to tell of files of the buildings at various times.

The grand jury is expected to return as many indictments today as were brought in Monday. Operations in the solicitor's office were busy all day Monday drawing indictment papers. The special session will continue at least through today and Wednesday, it is believed.

Many Get "Urgent" Calls.

With the firing of this broadside into the ranks of Atlanta gamblers Monday, the local sporting world has been stirred. In view of the fact that many indictments have been returned against men who do not recall having been "caught in any raid," many of the city's best-known poker players and dice manipulators have suddenly been called out of the city on "urgent business."

Despite the fact that 150 indictments are expected to result before the conclusion of the special grand jury sessions now in progress, the solicitor announces that his war is "still on."

posture in the newspapers forced the government's hand, other responsible members of the labor party call the letter a forgery.

To Vote Wednesday.

Wednesday is polling day and the broken labor front may not be mended in time to withstand the charges of the conservative party.

"I will not tolerate red propaganda," MacDonald told his Cardiff listeners, but the opposition speaker, it is chorus back that the propaganda is constant and that labor's proposed loan to Russia would come back in the form of millions of communistic leaflets and scores of Russian agitators.

Speaking in Camberwell, a section of London where the people are poor and the houses dingy, Lloyd-George again prodded labor's sore spot.

"The Moscow mystery casts a very sinister light on the government's recent refusal to inquire into the failure to prosecute a communist editor," Lloyd-George said. "The foreign office thinks the Zinovieff document is genuine and MacDonald is the foreign secretary. All his ministers say it is a forgery. I don't know why."

From 5,000 platforms conservative speakers condemned the government Monday. Nearly as many liberals did the same. Housing, food costs, even unemployment, are ignored by the opposition speakers, who seek to show that labor has been duped by the Moscow government.

ZINOVIEFF CALLS LETTER A LIE.

London, October 26.—(By The Associated Press)—In a message forwarded to the British Trade Union congress today, M. Zinovieff declared that the document dated August 15 attributed to him is "a gross falsification." The document in question is the letter received by the central committee of the British communist party signed by Zinovieff and made public by the British government October 24.

"There was not and could not be any such letter," says Zinovieff's message. "It seems that the laurids of Mr. Hughes are being divided by someone in England. It is absolutely manifest that we have in this case a too clear election maneuver."

M. Zinovieff then refers to an offer which he made the Secretary Hughes to establish the falsity of certain document, which, he asserts, Mr. Hughes "ran away from, fearing disclosure of a forgery."

Manchester, England, October 26.—Addressing a communist meeting here tonight, Arthur MacDonald, British representative in the communist international, who was named as one of the signatories of the Zinovieff letter, denied that he had anything to do with it, or had any knowledge of it.

"Those behind this document," he said, "know they are lying. If they believed for a moment that my signature was appended to it, I should now be in a Brixton jail. The fact is, these who engineered the document thought I was in Russia and that by the time I heard about it the elections would be over."

SOVIET DEMANDS BRITISH APOLOGY.

London, October 27.—(By The Associated Press)—Foreign office officials today received from Christian Rakovsky, soviet Russian charge d'affaires in London, and sent immediately to Prime Minister MacDonald, a note in which the soviet government, denying the authenticity of the alleged Zinovieff letter and insisting on an apology. DARES COOLIDGE TO OPPOSE BORAH-NORRIS

"There is no human probability of Mr. La Follette's election. In the next place, if elected president of the United States, La Follette would have no vote on a proposed amendment of the federal constitution altering the status of the supreme court by changing its processes. Mr. Coolidge, if elected, would have no power of veto on the question of submission. La Follette's removal from the senate would lose that proposition one vote. G. O. P. Belittles Voters' Intelligence.

"Hence, the attempt of Secretary Hughes, as spokesman of the administration, to frighten the people of the United States into the belief that Mr. La Follette's utterly futile candidacy for the presidency menaces the security of the supreme court falls little short of rank wickedness."

"While I want nothing to do with La Follette, candor compels me to say that the men who have sounded this false alarm simply presume upon the credulity of those they address. They do not actually compromise their own intellectual integrity and raise a large question of their honesty."

Borah Plans Court Change.

Exhibiting a document to his audience, Senator Glass said it was a senate bill, introduced by Senator Borah, of Idaho, and supported by other republicans, proposing to submit the question of altering the processes of the supreme court by requiring the concurrence of seven members of the court before an act of congress might be pronounced unconstitutional.

"The author of this bill," he said, "is William E. Borah, senior senator from Idaho. Mr. Borah is the republican nominee for reelection. If reelected he will naturally press for the passage of his bill because he earnestly believes a change should be made."

"If President Coolidge and his secretaries state what they say about the menace to constitutional government involved in the La Follette candidacy, why do they omit to denounce Borah and Norris and the republican candidates for reelection to the senate who favor quite as startling a change in the supreme court procedure as the La Follette?"

Challenges President.

"I should like to challenge President Coolidge to arraign as a 'revolutionary' and 'an enemy of constitutional government' the great republican senator whom he importuned to be his running mate on the national republican ticket as candidate for vice president. Neither the president nor his chief spokesman in the senate has characterized these republican nominees as 'disturbers of the peace' or 'a menace to constitutional liberty.' Why? Do they fear it might prove politically inexpedient to extend the range of their condemnation? If that is the reason, what becomes of the inconstant clatter-babbling of the 'great courage' of the administration?"

Purpose Is to Deceive.

"I say the whole performance is utterly discreditable. The concealed purpose is to deceive and frighten credulous people, especially the timid business man, into voting for Mr. Coolidge and against John W. Davis as a sure means of averting disaster, which does not threaten and which these republican speakers positively know can in no event occur."

"It is done, either reason; it is done, plainly speaking, to divert attention from the shameful maladministration, the blighting inefficiency of the government at Washington."

Senator Glass devoted much of his address to a reply to recent speeches of Secretary Hughes.

NEVER MISSED REUNION

When the idea of erecting a memorial at the birthplace of the Confederacy's leader was born at a reunion of the south culminated when he was elected commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans at the reunion in New Orleans in April, 1923.

He was selected at the reunion in New Orleans in April, 1923, and immediately thereafter participated in the dedication of a memorial shaft at Fairview, Ky., to Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy. On that occasion General Haldean was master of ceremonies, and he there visualized a dream that for several years had been sacred to his heart and to which he had devoted much of his time.

Jones, general klange of the Ku Klux Klan here, was sentenced by Judge E. M. Showalter today to serve five years in the state penitentiary at Moundsville.

J. A. Landis, convicted on a similar charge, was fined $500 and sentenced to serve sixty days in jail. Iran Evans, another defendant in the case, was fined $500.

The court granted a sixty-day stay of execution to permit the defense to apply to the circuit court for a writ of error.

Celestial Object Found Traveling Near Earth's Orbit

London, October 27.—Dr. Baade, German astronomer, has discovered an object of the tenth magnitude, and planetary in aspect, moving so rapidly that he suspects it is a comet, says a message from Copenhagen to the Greenwich observatory. Should this prove to be true the discovery would be of the greatest interest, because of the proximity of the object's orbit to the earth.

Its position at 7 o'clock tonight is given as right ascension 21 hours, 20 minutes, north declination 12 degrees, 50 minutes. It is not far from the star Epsilon, in the constellation Pegasus, which constellation can be seen any evening at 7 o'clock near the zenith.

Cambridge, Mass., October 27.—Confirmation of the discovery by the German astronomer Baade of a celestial object that may be a comet or an asteroid was received at the Harvard college observatory today in a cablegram announcing that the object had been seen again by the Belgian Delporte. His observation agreed with that of Baade that it was of the tenth magnitude and that it had characteristics not those of a fixed star. He was unable, however, to identify it more definitely.

Word of Baade's discovery has been wired again by Harvard to the leading astronomers of the country, and further confirmations are expected in the next day or two. It was said that the orbit of the object has not yet been worked out and that this is done it may not be possible to say just what the object is, although a few more observations may identify it.

had no effect on the commissioner. He said that pressure on Culbertson kept up, that the department of justice was used, and that finally he was offered another appointment to get his job off the commission.

"For three months President Coolidge has had this report," La Follette said. "He took it with him to Plymouth, Vt. It was stated he would make a decision immediately upon his return, but he evidently does not intend to make it until after March 4. That is what the sugar trust wants. Why does President Coolidge delay his decision?"

Names Sugar Politicians.

"I submit a few facts: William V. Hodges, a lawyer representing the Colorado beet-sugar interests which profit by this delay, is treasurer of the republican national committee. William Wrigley, Jr., the largest individual contributor to the republican campaign fund, is president of the Gunnison Sugar company. "Charles B. Warren, sometimes known as 'Beet-Sugar Charlie,' was chairman of the committee on resolutions which wrote the platform at the Cleveland republican convention. He is president of the Michigan Sugar company and the Toledo Sugar company. "Senator Reed Smoot, who has strong political pull in Utah and Idaho, is a stockholder in the Utah-Idaho Sugar company. "Former Senator McCumber, who promised to deliver North Dakota to the republican ticket, is counsel for the American Cane Sugar league."

4 U. S. ATTORNEYS ASKED TO RESIGN

Washington, October 27.—Four United States district attorneys have been asked to resign and six others have resigned since last July as a result of failure in most instances to enforce the prohibition laws, Attorney General Stone said today in reference to charges of lax prohibition enforcement.

The statement was made by Mr. Stone in amplification of the letter of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, made public recently, in which she said at least ten district attorneys were indifferent towards prohibition enforcement. This letter was written last July and he said since that time steps had been taken to disperse with the services of ten district attorneys. He did not name them.

Five persons were rescued from window ledges by firemen and a search is being conducted for other victims.

URGENT APPEALS MADE FOR DEMOCRATIC FUND

Georgia has now contributed $6,700 to the Davis-Bryan national campaign fund, including a check for $1,500 forwarded Monday by Victor Allen, finance director for the state. Supreme efforts are being put forward by all workers for this, the closing week in the campaign, following urgent appeals for more generous contributions by Jesse Jones, national finance director, and other leaders of the democratic forces.

It is pointed out that the final week may well be the deciding period of the presidential campaign and money is needed to pay necessary expenses of the campaign and workers in a number of states where the result of the balloting on November 4 is still in doubt.

Major John S. Cohen, national committeeman for Georgia, Monday sent out a letter to party leaders all over the state, including senators, congressmen, members of the state legislature, state executive committee members and other prominent figures in the Georgia democratic organization. In this letter, Major Cohen declared reports from all parts of the country regarding the chances of victory for the democratic candidates were most encouraging. He urged, however, the importance of large contributions to the national war chest and the importance of Georgians getting out a big vote on Tuesday, November 4.

William G. McDoo, unsuccessful candidate for the democratic nomination in the national convention, sent a telegram Monday to Major Cohen, in which he stressed the importance of every Georgia democrat going to the polls and voting. A similar message was received from Clem L. Shaver, national chairman, and other party leaders.

Chairman Shaver pointed out that the popular vote may conceivably have a large bearing on the outcome of the campaign, since it is possible the final election may be thrown into congress.

PRETTY WEATHER TODAY, FORECAST BY LOCAL BUREAU

Fair weather for Tuesday, with temperature about normal for the time of the year, was the promise made Monday afternoon by C. F. von Herrmann, in charge of the local office of the U. S. weather bureau.

After setting a record of 27 days without any rainfall, Atlanta's weatherman broke his string when rain fell all day Sunday. Now, however, he says that at least several days of delightful weather are coming and no more rain may be expected, at least until the latter part of the week. The 27-day stretch of dry weather, which has just ended, while it was unusual, did not break the record. One year there was an even longer dry period, though this one of October, 1924, takes second place. In 1884, there were 29 consecutive days with rain, from September 13 to October 21.

Gate City Guard Holds Business Meeting Tonight

The first meeting of the Gate City Guard since its reorganization in August will be held tonight at the Ansley hotel when approximately 75 prominent Atlantans will meet in the Rainbow room. An elaborate dinner will be served, covers being laid for 75. Lieutenant Colonel Eugene Oberdorfer, Jr., executive officer of the 122d infantry, Georgia national guard, and president of the Gate City Guard, will preside.

Upon conclusion of the world war the guard was mustered out of the service and has been inactive since that time until August of this year, when former members reorganized. At the meeting tonight plans for the future of the organization will be discussed.

Oldest Unit in South.
The Gate City Guard is the oldest military unit in the south, having been organized in 1858, and acquitting itself with honor and glory in every conflict since the war between the states. It has furnished more officers and military leaders to the nation than any other organization in the south, it is said, and its roster has always included Atlanta's leading citizens.

The guard was presented with its first flag in 1860 and soon was called into service with the Confederate army. After that conflict the organization remained an active unit in civilian life and soon attracted wide interest as a social organization, wearing brilliant and highly expensive uniforms, and was noted throughout the southland, according to the older Atlanta citizens.

In the Spanish-American war and in the world war the unit participated, being mustered out of the service shortly after the armistice in November, 1918. At that time there was no military organization to "carry on," it is said, resulting in temporary inactivity of the unit.

Becomes Company F.

After some investigation and consideration, however, it was decided to designate it as Company F, of the second battalion, and this unit was invested with the rights and privileges with which the old guard was clothed. Renewal and amendment to the original charter was obtained and the new Gate City Guard was expanded to form a regiment—former members of the old guard furnishing most of the officers and non-commissioned officers for the new guard.

So the Gate City Guard, as reorganized, represents the entire 122d infantry of the Georgia national guard. Membership is by invitation only, it is said.

As reorganized Lieutenant Colonel Oberdorfer is president, First Sergeant Esmond P. Gue is secretary, Captain Harry A. Heins and Captain Roy LeCraw are vice presidents, First Sergeant Roy E. Norvell, Lieutenant Ray A. Nixon, First Sergeant Joseph Spencer, Corporal W. B. Love and Sergeant Major E. C. Babb—these composing the board of trustees.

Colonel Oberdorfer is commandant and Captains Heins and LeCraw are platoon commanders.

Local Society Of Magicians Is Organized

What promises to be one of the city's most unique societies has just been organized—the Atlanta Society of Magicians. The purpose of the organization is to advance interest in magic and to provide entertainment for its members and friends. A number of the most prominent amateur magicians in the south are enrolled as charter members of the society, which plans to hold regular monthly meetings from now on.

Dr. F. E. Van der Veer, one of the original members of the society of American Magicians and a former officer of the national body, has been elected president of the local society. Julian V. Boehm has been named vice-president and Sherwood B. Blodgett secretary-treasurer.

At the organization meeting, it was decided that membership in the new society would be by invitation only and that the society's roll would be limited to magicians of acknowledged standing. The charter members of the organization include: Dr. F. E. Van der Veer, Julian V. Boehm, Sherwood B. Blodgett, J. E. Hunnicutt, Jr., Kenneth S. Keyes and Allan C. Gottschaldt.

DR. DURHAM TO SPEAK TO KIWANIANS TODAY

What promises to be a most entertaining and instructive program has been arranged for the regular weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club, which will be held today at 12:30 o'clock at the Ansley hotel.

An address by Dr. Plato Durham, of Emory university, and a special musical program is to consist of a solo by Mrs. Julia Floyd, of Savannah, who has a splendid soprano voice, and of several numbers by the quartet of the Druid Hills Methodist church. Miss Ethel Bever, church organist and director of the choir, will play all accompaniments. Members of the choir are: Mrs. R. F. Fraser, Jr., alto; Mrs. Julia Floyd, soprano; R. F. Dale, bass, and L. L. White, tenor.

ATLANTES OBSERVE LADIES' DAY TODAY

The Atlantes club will celebrate its first ladies' day at the Robert Fulton hotel at 12:15 today. Every member is expected to bring a lady to the luncheon.

Eugene Black will address the club on the Community Chest. Turner's orchestra will furnish music. Fuzzy Woodcuff will present the ladies' and men's prizes. A clog dance will be given by Mr. Tupman.

Gene Craig will be chairman of the program.

RULING ONLY APPLIES TO NEW PENSIONERS

Notice was given Monday at the office of the state commissioner of pensions that it is only new pensioners, who have never before been on the rolls, who must file their applications for 1925 pensions with the pension clerk not later than November 1. Old pensioners, already on the roll, or who have heretofore filed applications for 1925, are not affected by this ruling.

NEW TRIAL HEARING FOR RAWLS PUT OFF

Savannah, Ga., October 27.—(Special)—The hearing on a motion for a new trial, filed soon after the first trial, by Bernard Rawls, convicted of the killing of A. Lamar Ponder, manager of Tybee hotel, went over today in superior court to November 21.

"Christine."

(At the Metropolitan.)

Thomas H. Ince adds another to his long record of screen successes in "Christine of the Hungry Heart," which opened at the Metropolitan theater yesterday.

There are a number of elements that take "Christine" out of the ordinary. In the first place, the story is from the successful novel of Kathleen Norris, and is compelling and interesting from start to finish.

In the second place, an excellent cast, including five stars, was provided by Mr. Ince, and the story is vividly interpreted. They are Florence Vidor, Warner Baxter, Clive Brook, Walter Hiers and Dorothy Brock.

And finally, the production is typically a Thomas H. Ince production, carefully directed and staged in a lavish manner. Also an "Our Gang" comedy.

"Three Women."

Ernest Lubitsch, director of "The Marriage Circle," has done his usual excellent work in the production of a picture that everyone should see. He has chosen an exceptional cast to work with, a cast worthy of a great director, and with an unusual plot.

May McAvoy, Marie Prevost and Pauline Frederick share the tri-stellar honors. Lew Cody, Mary Carr and William H. Cagney are the other brilliant players. May McAvoy, as the wife of a fickle husband, plays her part in charming sincerity, while Pauline Frederick, who takes the role as her mother and former sweetheart to her husband, seems to have been made for the part. Marie Prevost, as still another sweetheart, is the perfect vampire type. The plot has unusual complications, which all wind up to a very dramatic climax. The "Sunshine Kidnies," a group of clever children, won their way into the hearts of the audience by their clever singing and dancing numbers.

"The Law Forbids."

(At the Rialto.)

As the appealing little child of a divorcee, which all wind up to a very dramatic climax. The "Sunshine Kidnies," a group of clever children, won their way into the hearts of the audience by their clever singing and dancing numbers.

The heroism of Paul Russell, negro servant, saved the lives of two small children and their grandmother, who were entrapped in their room when flames enveloped their home at 371 West Peachtree street early Sunday morning. The negro braved the flames and leaped to the ground with the two children in his arms, returning to rescue their grandmother, Mrs. Z. H. Culpepper.

The negro hero, Paul Russell, is shown in the upper right hand corner of the photograph. Merle Patterson, 9, is shown at the left and his sister, Dorothy, 11, at right, while Mrs. Culpepper is in the center. All owe their lives to the faithful servant. The photograph shows the room from which the children and their grandmother were snatched by Russell and carried to safety.

role. Her scenes with Lytell, a big brother, were screamingly funny.

For the rest, Rankin Mansfield had a delicious assignment in a "light heavy" part as the juvenile villain of the plot, Lorraine Bernard and Ramona Weaver vied for comedy honors, the first as a German maid, with accent and everything, and the other as an imperious dowager and mother of the heroine, with loggnette and everything. Gus Forbes, Gavin Har- rison, Director Edwin Vail, William Lloyd, William Macaulay and Laura Harrison completed the adequate cast.

"BILLY," PRESENTED BY LYRIC PLAYERS, IS RIOT OF MIRTH

A riot of wholesome mirth swept through the Lyric theater Monday night in response to the Lyric players' first performance of "Billy," the great old farce comedy by George Cameron, which the Shuberts produced more than a few years ago with Sidney Drew in the leading role, a character that carried him to the crest of his fame as a star of police comedy.

The play is refreshingly different from farce comedy, as the phrase is used generally today. It has nothing sensational, nothing vulgar, nothing rude. It is just clean, wholesome fun with the pell mell succession of farcical situations, provocations of almost incessant laughter, that developed an interesting romantic theme to a satisfying climax and conclusion.

Wilfred Lytell has the Sidney Drew role and, playing the college football hero with four missing teeth at the very period when his plans were made and fate demanded that he propose to the girl of his heart, he was so funny that the faces of many of his auditors are going to ache even today from overexertion of the laughing muscles.

By and large, it was Lytell's play. Action, comedy, characterization—all circled around his well liked perfect lead. Edith King was the principal actress in support, playing the sweet young object of the footloose one's adoration. Marion White came a good second among the feminine players with an adorable "little sister"

role. Her scenes with Lytell, a big brother, were screamingly funny.

For the rest, Rankin Mansfield had a delicious assignment in a "light heavy" part as the juvenile villain of the plot, Lorraine Bernard and Ramona Weaver vied for comedy honors, the first as a German maid, with accent and everything, and the other as an imperious dowager and mother of the heroine, with loggnette and everything. Gus Forbes, Gavin Har- rison, Director Edwin Vail, William Lloyd, William Macaulay and Laura Harrison completed the adequate cast.

"BILLY," PRESENTED BY LYRIC PLAYERS, IS RIOT OF MIRTH

A riot of wholesome mirth swept through the Lyric theater Monday night in response to the Lyric players' first performance of "Billy," the great old farce comedy by George Cameron, which the Shuberts produced more than a few years ago with Sidney Drew in the leading role, a character that carried him to the crest of his fame as a star of police comedy.

The play is refreshingly different from farce comedy, as the phrase is used generally today. It has nothing sensational, nothing vulgar, nothing rude. It is just clean, wholesome fun with the pell mell succession of farcical situations, provocations of almost incessant laughter, that developed an interesting romantic theme to a satisfying climax and conclusion.

Wilfred Lytell has the Sidney Drew role and, playing the college football hero with four missing teeth at the very period when his plans were made and fate demanded that he propose to the girl of his heart, he was so funny that the faces of many of his auditors are going to ache even today from overexertion of the laughing muscles.

By and large, it was Lytell's play. Action, comedy, characterization—all circled around his well liked perfect lead. Edith King was the principal actress in support, playing the sweet young object of the footloose one's adoration. Marion White came a good second among the feminine players with an adorable "little sister" role. Her scenes with Lytell, a big brother, were screamingly funny.

Chicago Gets Maranville in Season's Big Deal

No Money Is Involved In Pittsburgh's Trade With Chicago Nationals

Chicago, October 27.—The Chicago National League club today acquired Walter Maranville, second baseman, Charlie Grimm, first baseman, and Wilbur Cooper, left-hand pitcher, all of the Pittsburgh Nationals, in exchange for Vic Aldridge, right-hand pitcher; George Grantham, second baseman; and Albert Niehaus, first baseman, the latter recently purchased by the Cubs from Chattanooga. No money was involved in the deal.

The trade is the biggest of the winter season and according to President William Veeck of the Cubs, one of the largest ever put through in the National league.

Aldridge had been a member of the Cubs for three years, coming from the Los Angeles Pacific Coast League club.

George Grantham came to the Cubs two years ago from the Omaha Western League club, and was field captain during 1923.

Niehaus was one of the leading first basemen of the Southern association and was to have reported to the Cubs next spring. He is a right-hand hitter.

In Cooper, the Cubs have obtained one of the best left-hand pitchers in baseball. During the last season he was one of four pitchers in the National league credited with winning 20 games, Vance and Grimes, of the Dodgers, and Carl Mays, of the Reds, being the others.

Cooper participated in 38 games and won 20, losing 14. He was one of few southpaw pitchers who has walked only 41 men and struck out 62.

Grantham hit .315 for 127 games, and was one of the best base stealers in the league.

Aldridge won 15 games for the Cubs and lost 12, pitching in 32 contests.

Maranville formerly played shortstop on the Boston Braves. He went to Pittsburgh and played shortstop for time, but after the acquisition of Glenn Wright by the Pirates from the Kansas City American Association club, Maranville was switched over to the keystone sack, at which position he made good at once, his work around the middle station being one of the outstanding features of the Pirates' pennant race during the past season.

Charles Grimm is rated as one of the best first basemen in the National league. During the past season his unofficial batting average for 151 games was .280.

ROCKNE HUNTS SUBS FOR INJURED

Notre Dame, Ind., October 27.—The Sewanee Tigers, famed in song and story, will invade this community Saturday for a meeting with Oglethorpe, and an equally determined team of gridders, bearing the laurels of the Stormy Petrels will throw its full force of veterans against the invading force. Sewanee possesses one of the most colorful eleven in the south and will be pointed towards victory when the rival forces mix drive and defense at the Ponce de Leon baseball park.

Dope points to another victory by the Sewanee crew but Coach Robertson's charges believe that the time has come when the laurels to their side have arrived.

Saturday, when the Petrels were in New Orleans fighting to a 13-13 tie with Loyola, Coach Robertson was keeping his star line men, Linton Cooper, out of the fray, risking the losing of this contest to have this veteran line well and fit for the meeting with Sewanee.

Charles Corless, another veteran on the Petrel line, was allowed to enter the game for only a few minutes, one of the reserves, Perkerson, handling nicely this regular's berth. Corless has been on the sick list for several days but he and Cooper are expected to be among the eleven Petrels who answer the opening whistle of Saturday's battle.

The Petrels came through their tough battle of Saturday with Loyola without any serious injuries having been reported. The Petrels' crowd gathered several bruises in its last battle but save for an injury to Clay Parrish, is in good shape.

Parrish received a hard blow on his injured knee and this member is giving the veteran Petrel center plenty of trouble.

Coach Robertson has been pointing out to the Sewanee crowd and the week's work prior to the battle Saturday promises to be heavy.

The Petrel line also gave a great exhibition against a line that carried an 18-pound advantage.

Nix and Carroll were down under Corless' punts fast, and Justice and Crowe were handling their tackle positions nicely. Perkerson and Hardin, lightweights of the line, were at a disadvantage against the Loyola forwards but seemed not to mind this handicap.

Cooper, Corless To Return To Petrel Line for Sewanee

of trouble. Parrish was hurt in the Tech-Sewanee last year and it was believed this fall that he would be unable to return to the gridiron. The knee seemed somewhat and Parrish returned to the pivot position. Under careful treatment during the week Parrish's knee seemed to improve and allow him to show his worth against the Tigers.

The Petrel backfield showed a strong offense against the Loyola Wolves, the quartet of backs working together nicely against a force that out-weighted them 13 pounds to the man. Campbell was generating the Petrels well, putting nicely and playing a great defensive game. Killip, at fullback, continued his flashy plunging through the heavier Loyola line time after time for consistent gains.

Redfern Made Best Run. Captain Redfern gave a creditable exhibition although he was a marked man. The Petrel captain was a regular speed merchant and, aided by Redfern, totaled the Petrels' scores. Redfern made the longest run of the afternoon, going 40 yards through the Wolves' defense for the second Oglethorpe counter.

FIGHTER DIES DURING BOUT

Yonkers, N. Y., October 27.—Ralph Thomas, of New York, a middleweight boxer, died during the second round of a bout with Robert Yechacha, middleweight champion of South America, at the state armory here tonight.

Neither boxer had struck a hard blow up to the time of Thomas' death. The second round had just started when Thomas suddenly fell to the floor and expired.

Copier Fitzgerald is investigating.

GENE TUNNEY PUTS FOLEY TO SLEEP

Memphis, Tenn., October 27.—Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, knocked out Harry Foley, of Hot Springs, Ark., in the first round of a scheduled eight-round bout here tonight.

Left to the chin ended the fight. The knockout came when two minutes and five seconds of the first round had elapsed.

Before the bout it was announced that Tunney's championship was at stake.

Foley was on the defensive from the start and before the round was half over it was apparent that he was no match for the champion.

Tunney weighed 175 and Foley 170.

When Foley received the finishing blow his head hit the floor with a resounding thump. He was revived in a short time but appeared to be weak and shaky.

A physician who examined Foley after the fight started that while he expected no ill results from the fall it would be advisable for the fighter to retire to his room and remain quiet for the present.

Bulldogs, in Good Shape, Prepare for Tennessee

Gala Events Are Planned For "Home Coming" Day; Fletcher Hurts Knee Again

Atlanta, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—A day of rest was enjoyed in the Bulldog camp Monday, following their arrival Sunday after making a brilliant showing and taking an easy victory from the Vanderbilt "Red Captains," the afternoon was one of a deserved lay-off. It took the Red and Black 27 years to score a win over the "Commodores."

Beginning Tuesday afternoon Coach Woodruff will begin an intensive week of preparation for the Tennessee game here Saturday. "Home coming" will also be celebrated and gala events will be on the program for the visitors.

The Bulldogs returned from their Nashville invasion in very good condition. No injuries of a serious nature, with the exception of Captain John Fletcher, resulted from last Saturday's battle. Captain Fletcher received another knock to his knee, and it is doubtful if he will return to the line-up this season. Others received sundry bruises but will be ready for the game this week.

Tennessee is represented with a strong eleven this year and one which expects to give the Red and Black no little trouble. Last year the Bulldogs were held scoreless for the first half, but came into their own in the latter half and scored a 17-0 victory. The Bulldogs realize that this is the set-up affair, but are determined to continue their rampant march for conference honors. No air of over-confidence prevails and the full strength will be hurled against the Tennessee team.

Athens is preparing for the "homecoming" football game of the year.

Jamieson and Wheat Held Best Fielders by Players

Note—This is the third of a series of articles appearing in this column, which will give the players' views on the make-up of the All-American and All-National teams. The first was published last week, and the second was published this week. The players' views on the make-up of the All-American and All-National teams are given in this column. The players' views on the make-up of the All-American and All-National teams are given in this column.

(Copyright, 1924, in U. S. and Canada by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.) Of the 116 ballots cast by American league players for the make-up of the All-American team, Jamieson, of Cleveland, received exactly 100.

In the National league, Wheat, of Brooklyn, had a decisive majority of the votes cast for the same position, receiving a total of 62 out of 111.

The players' choice for All-American left fielder and the vote for them was as follows: Jamieson, Cleveland, 100; Ruth, New York, 9; Falk, Chicago, 3; Lamar, Philadelphia, 2; Williams, St. Louis, 1; and Mense, New York, 1.

Switched to Bannino. The nine votes given Babe Ruth were due to the anxiety of the players casting the votes to have him on an All-American team. The Babe is regularly a right fielder and was elected as such to the all-star aggregation. But, in nine cases, voters switched him to left field so as to place other right fielders, such as Heilmann, of Detroit, and Rice, of Washington, on their team.

The real race for left field honors was between Jamieson and Falk. Forty-two players gave the vote to the Cleveland outfielder, while 69 gave it to the White Sox star. This was a bigger percentage than was given to any other player.

Of the three experts picking All-American teams this season only one, Babe Ruth, places Jamieson in left field. Mathewson selects Falk to go back and get long fly balls, his throwing arm and his batting. The vote of the American league rate Jamieson equal to Falk in all essentials except batting. In that he excels the Chicago man.

Here are their records on the offense for the season:

	G. R. H. R. P. Pct.
Jamieson	143 98 213 3
Falk	133 78 185 6 352

Cuyler, of Pittsburgh, was Wheat's chief rival for the left field job on the all-National league team. The vote on the players considered for the position was: Wheat, Brooklyn, 62; Cuyler, Pittsburgh, 30; Mense, New York, 5; Carey, Pittsburgh, 2; Evers, Cincinnati, 2; Wilson, New York, 2; and Grigsby, Chicago, 2. Of these men Roush is regularly a center fielder.

Passed by Experts. The esteem in which Wheat seems to be held by his comrades of the elder major league circuit is not reflected in the experts' make-up of all-American teams. Wheat is given no place on any of them, although Mathewson does put him for his second team, giving as his reason the Brook-

A. A. C. CAGERS IN HEAVY SCRIMMAGE

Indications that the Atlanta Athletic club this year is to have one of its best basketball teams is shown by the fact that three fast scrimmages are held each week this early in the fall. Coach Joe Bean, who handles the destinies of the basketballers who wear the colors of the Atlanta Athletic club, has gathered together one of the best collections of college and high-school stars yet seen working out to make Atlanta a winning basketball combination.

Scrimmages are held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings at 6:30 o'clock in the Athletic Club gymnasium, and if those scrimmages count for anything, the A. A. C. team this year should be much better than that of last season.

Now, in word or two in regard to who is working out every week. First, there is Joe Singleton, captain and forward of the team last year; Scrimmage Sullivan, George Peron, center, at guards; with Tom Bryan and Cooper, at center. Tom Slate, Bill Morrow, Ritz, Steve Hartner, Fred Beck, Emory Jenks and Jackson, from the reserves of last season, are again on hand. Rufus Bass, one of the veterans of the old guard, is missing from actual play, but is using his influence on the sidelines in each workout.

Some of the college stars working are: Joe Bennett, former guard at Georgia; Joe Eckford, a "Baby" Boone, from Tech; Miller Alexander, from Rice institute, and a former Tech High star, and Tom Oastler, from the Sunday School league last season.

A scrimmage last night was held with the following teams lined up: The Atlanta Athletic club, coached by Joe Singleton at forwards, Joe Eckford at center, with Hartner and Sullivan at guards; Jenks and Ritz forward; Jackson, at center, and Beck and Alexander at guard.

Coach Bean is giving the candidates plenty of time to show everything possible without being in a hurry to name a team.

EIGHT NAVAL STARS ARE BARRED

Annapolis, Md., October 27.—The number of Navy varsity gridsters disqualified from participation in athletics for one month because of unsatisfactory scholastic standing reached eight tonight, when it was learned that besides the four regulars whose ineligibility was announced earlier in the day, a quartet of first-team substitutes also have been disqualified.

The latter are Query, Hubert-Jones and Henry, backfield men; and Horner, a line man. The regulars are: Shapley, guard; Flippin, halfback; Lenz, quarterback; and Osburne, center, all star performers.

With the examinations of November 22 the men's next opportunity to regain their places on the eleven, the suspensions have cast a cloud over the midweek game of games—that with Army—to be played in Baltimore November 29.

Meanwhile, Coach Folwell must develop a virtually new organization for the games with Penn State, Vermont and Bucknell, the first of which is but five days away.

Folwell today threw Hamilton and Banks into the backfield in a practice session, and Caldwell and Wellings filled the other two positions. It cannot be said, however, whether this alignment will be permanent.

The chief concern of the sailors is the Army-Navy tilt. The suspended players, it is said, may take part in workouts if they wish, but whether they can do this and at the same time recoup their classroom standing is a question.

SPORTING FRAT IS ORGANIZED

New York, October 27.—Vincent Richards and a group of other active and passive athletes of national reputation have started to organize a sort of national sports fraternity with a $5,000,000 chapter house in New York and other houses in nine other cities, it was announced Monday.

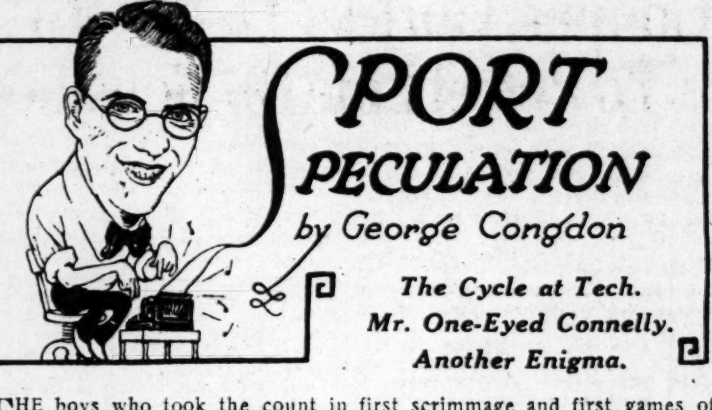

Joe Loomis, the famous sprinter, is mentioned as one of the chief organizers. The directorate of the New York club includes, in addition to young Richards, Ted Coy, the historic football player; Oswald Kirkby, Jerome Travers and Big Bill Edwards.

The New York chapter is to be limited to 5,000 customers or brothers and the plans call for facilities for tennis, golf, polo and trapshooting. The national membership will be limited to 40,000 active members and 250,000 non-resident.

Detroit, Minneapolis, Cleveland, Chicago, Philadelphia, Montreal, Pittsburgh and Boston are the cities which will be honored with branch clubs.

Chicago, October 27.—While the football fans in the grandstands think that "Red" Grange is merely outturning his opponents for the long string of touchdowns which have made the Illinois player famous, Coach A. A. Sage, of the University of Chicago, believes that Grange succeeds by outguessing his would-be tacklers.

Stagg, who has coached football teams for 30 years, said today that Grange's "judgment of the situation" impressed him in an early-season game last year.

THE boys who took the count in first scrimmage and first games of the football season are getting back into the fray. But they are going back to take the places of those who have been included in the toll taken by the progress of gridiron activities pointing to Thanksgiving and the climax. There are some who are still out of the lineup, though, whose presence will be sorely needed.

Tech has suffered this season. Captain George Gardner has been unable to finish any game so far, and couldn't start the A-C-A-M affair. He will be back for the Notre Dame game next Saturday in South Bend. Gus Merkle, end, is still out. Rob Reeves, hurt in the Alabama game, opens a big gap in the backfield, but Vaughn Connelly is just getting over an injury and will effectively cork that place. Fred Moore, hard worked at quarterback, will be alternated next Saturday again with Craig; Wilton, who is just recovering from illness. It's a cycle of replacements that Tech is going through now.

IT'S refreshing to note that the Yellow Jackets are offering no alibi for the Alabama defeat. They hit a stronger team and, distasteful as the admission must be, they give Alabama due credit for beating them. Alabama deserves credit. We went wrong on the dope, which is not particularly surprising, and there were hundreds of others who said the Big Breeze would dry up the Tidal Tempest that hit Grant field Saturday.

Hope springs eternal in the human breast, though, and there are Techmen on the streets of Atlanta who are whispering to each other with significant winks, "Watch Tech up at South Bend. It's time for them to pull another Penn State up there." Ambitious, yes, but possible. There wasn't much Tech coin jingling without points before the Penn States game. We haven't the hope to subscribe to the whisperings, but pass them on as an evidence of the kind of moral support this Tech team has back of it.

AS we Chevroleted ourselves about town yesterday looking for something in general but nothing in particular, we had a thrill like a June bride. It was furnished when our rubber-tired path crossed the ample and elongated trail furnished by the boots of Mr. One-Eyed Connelly. Literally, our trails did not cross, for literally we bumped slap-bang into him as we stepped into Holt Gewinner's gym to watch Jack Reddick, or whoever might be around, do a little workout.

We were concentrating on a particularly paralyzing punch that Mr. Reddick was handing around the ears of Bill Bailey, when we felt a yank at our coat lapel like the tug of a baby's hand on our heartstrings. "How d'you spell 'Paddy'?" inquired an impetuous voice and, lo and behold, it was none other than our esteemed friend, Mr. One-Eyed Connelly, champion gate-crasher of the world.

AFTER felicitating ourselves in Mr. Connelly's presence on being so fortunate as to run across this popular and widely-known gent and answering his question, we saw the One-Eyed person was engaged in catching up with his correspondence, having crashed his way into the good graces of Brother Gewinner's key-puncher. We forgot his august presence a few moments later to engage in loud conversation that was raucous in the ears of Mr. Connelly and his rancor spilled over.

"Put, tut," yowled Mr. Connelly nervously. "Can't you see I'm writing letters, and I can't write letters—why, I can't even think—with such noise." We shut up summarily, with some remark about there being serious doubt of his ability to cogitate, noise or no noise. At any rate, we interrupted a few minutes later to inquire the why of his gifted presence in Atlanta, there being no gates here to crash, to our knowledge. "Just on my way to Florida," he replied. "Nice climate down there, so I'm going down where the weather suits my clothing." And with this the interview ended.

HAVING digressed so far from sport as to note the social event of Mr. Connelly's presence, we proceed to a subject as interesting, fascinating and wholly intriguing as this One-Eyed gent. None other than our good friend, M. Van Paassen, who writes "The World's Window," while gazing rapidly out of The Constitution window. M. Van Paassen, a Belgian by birth, a Britisher by naturalization, and an American by informal adoption, has always been a source of joy whenever he has weathered his on-the-verge-of-being-portly figure around one of our visiting chairs. We asked him last evening for the secret of his charm.

"Once upon a time," he began, as all fairy tales should begin, and then he saw Willie Wolfe. "Hey, you great big Kansas wildcat, what do you—"

We pulled the excitable young man back to his subject. "I had an idea I had an idea I'd like to tour the world," he began again and then spied Ralph Jones stalking into the office. "Come back here, you long-legged, cock-eyed Britisher, and tell me about—"

Again we snatched our now-wild-eyed guest back to his subject. "I started out without much encouragement to," was as far as he got. L. O. Mosley came in unlimbering an enormous pencil for a night of assistant city-editing. "Say, you hairy, low-browed imp of Satan, I thought you were going to get—"

We interrupted M. Van Paassen's third outburst with waning patience. "He finally began all over again.

"Once upon a time—say, George, what do you do when your brakes won't hold?" and we gave up the interview. M. Van Paassen, however, will continue to intrigue us, for his "supreme ambition" has been such a broad knowledge of the world that he has managed to engage in such commonly slanderous salutations? It's beyond us.

SPALLA AFTER JACK DEMPSEY BOGASH QUILTS FLOWERS BOUT

Rome, October 27.—Erminio Spalla, the European heavyweight champion, who yesterday knocked out DePaulus, the Belgian champion, in a bout in Naples, declared today his "supreme ambition" is to meet Jack Dempsey.

"I have sent Dempsey a challenge through the European boxing federation," Spalla added. "I am putting myself at his disposal for a bout for the world's championship. I am ready to fight him at any time in any country and under whatever conditions he chooses to impose. I intend to go to the United States next spring, but if Dempsey wishes to fight me before that time I will go across the ocean whenever he likes."

M'TIGUE FILES SUIT; GETS LAUGH

New York, October 27.—Thousands of people fell fast on the sidewalks of New York, paralyzed with laughter over the wildest joke of the year when it was announced Monday afternoon that Mickey McTigue, light heavyweight champion of the world, intended to sue the boxing commission for a quarter of a million. The starboard in the library steps was seen to port his face in a silly grin and General Sheridan's mount in the Equestrian statue up near Central park aroused the neighborhood with an iron horse-laugh.

Amid this raucous merriment, Aleck Tendler, counsel for McTigue, solemnly went on to say that the commission had no right to suspend McTigue for one year as was done last week. The announcement became funnier at every word, rising to a comic climax when Tendler said he thought they'd win the suit.

The boxing commission at a late hour hadn't heard anything official concerning the suit, which was unusual. The boxing commission is not always quite up-to-date and is letting on James G. Blaine in the presidential election.

LOCUST GROVE WINS, 45-0

Locust Grove, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Locust Grove institute Saturday defeated Bernville A. & M. school by the one-sided score of 45-0. The game was featured by many brilliant plays on the part of Locust Grove institute, and not once during the entire game was its goal threatened.

In the first quarter Smith, of Locust Grove, ran 15 yards for a touchdown. Scott ran for a touchdown in the second quarter and the third quarter had hardly started when touchdowns were made by Crouch, Scott and Southern, who intercepted a pass and ran 25 yards for a touchdown.

Stone, of Locust Grove, ran for a touchdown in the beginning of the last quarter, and later Smith ran for his second touchdown of the day.

BOMAR SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Nashville, Tenn., October 27.—The condition of Lynn Bomar, Vanderbilt star back, injured in Saturday's football game with Georgia, showed improvement this morning. His physician stated that if he continued to improve at the same rate, he will be out of the hospital in a week or ten days.

However, he is out of the game for the rest of the season. He is certainly known as a dangerous threat, and an offense that apparently has no limit of formations and plays.

Columbia High, the great Little team the University eleven made such a wonderful fight against in its last home game, played one of the best games seen in Atlanta in years, and

"Best Team in World," Is Opinion of Kid Clay; Hospital List Is Large

BY JULIAN GRIFFIN. The list of injured candidates at Tech is growing rather large as the team prepares for the invasion of Indiana Saturday to meet the strong out foe of the season. Bob Reeves, half, and Gus Merkle, end, were already ready out and their entrance in the Notre Dame game is problematical at present. Fred Moore, quarter, and Walt Godwin, guard, were hurt in the Alabama game and are hobbling around, unable to do any rough work at present. These boys could no doubt be called on in case of extreme emergency Saturday, but none of them is in the best of condition, to say the least.

The team leaves Atlanta Thursday morning at 7 o'clock for the Notre Dame journey. Coach Clay has seen the fighting Irishmen in action this season and he told the boys Monday afternoon that they were going up against about the "best team in the world Saturday." So there is the proposition, if Clay's opinion is worth anything to you.

Two Irishmen will be playing without the services of Captain Adam Walsh, who is nursing a broken hand, and Harry Stuhlhofer, quarterback who injured his shoulder in the Princeton game last Saturday, but Rockne's men will be playing before a "homecoming" crowd at South Bend, and it would be hard to expect anybody—except possibly Nebraska—to beat them.

While considering the Notre Dame game, it might be well to remember that Rockne played his entire second year against Princeton in the first quarter and they held the Tigers scoreless, which does not sound an encouraging. And they still have Layden, Crowley and Don Miller.

The Yellow Jackets will be fighting to redeem the defeat at the hands of Alabama last Saturday, and a good showing is expected of them, but victory is a little too much to ask.

Scrimmage Today. Coach Alexander sent his charges through signal drills at Grant field yesterday afternoon, while two freshman squads were scrimmaging each other, using Notre Dame formations. They will scrimmage the second varsity this afternoon and will try it out against the first team Wednesday, in all probability.

The freshmen have a game of their own arranged for Saturday, when they take on the Mercer Bulls at Grant field. It will be the second game for the freshmen, they having defeated G. M. C. decisively last week-end. Their coming game will no doubt be much better, however, as the Cubs are holding a victory over the Auburn freshmen, the first in history of the two schools.

Boys' High Tackles G. M. A. In First Prep League Tilt

BY GORDON KEITH. Local prep elevens are recovering from some of the hardest games of the season last week, and coaches are putting them through the paces in preparation for more hard battles Friday and Saturday. Friday, the first of three big prep league games is scheduled, the annual tilt between Boys' High and G. M. A.

On the same date Decatur plays Winder High in Decatur, and Marietta tackles one of the hardest propositions on its schedule when Coach Bean's eleven meets Darlington in Rome.

Saturday, Tech High plays Richmond academy in Atlanta, and the University School Blue Birds set sail for Florida, where coach Phillips' men meet the Alligator prep champions, Lakeland.

Win, Lose and Tie. Three mighty good prep football teams came to Atlanta last Friday and Saturday, winning one, losing one and tying the other game with local clubs. Enslay High, Alabama state champions, demonstrated conclusively why the Birmingham team is a champ and why its goal line has not been crossed all season when it met the Tech High eleven Saturday.

The Alabamians have a fast, aggressive team that certainly knows the game and has a dangerous threat, and an offense that apparently has no limit of formations and plays.

Columbia High, the great Little team the University eleven made such a wonderful fight against in its last home game, played one of the best games seen in Atlanta in years, and

FOX HUNTERS MEET IN ALA.

The Alabama Fox Hunters' association will hold its state meeting at Heflin, Ala., Tuesday, November 4, and everything is being put in readiness for the hunters and their friends from over Alabama and adjoining states by Senator W. H. Howie, of this city.

Red foxes are said to be abundant in Cleburne county and for that reason Heflin was selected for the state meet.

Chicago, October 27.—While the football fans in the grandstands think that "Red" Grange is merely outturning his opponents for the long string of touchdowns which have made the Illinois player famous, Coach A. Stagg, who has coached football teams for 30 years, said today that Grange's "judgment of the situation" impressed him in an early-season game last year.

"Grange is not tearing along at breakneck speed all the time. Quite the contrary. He changes his pace to suit the conditions. When he has to outrun somebody he is able to do so. He always has something left for that big effort and invariably he knows when it is time to make that big effort.

"That judgment, that knowledge of just what to do, and just when to do it, is, in my opinion, Grange's greatest asset."

ANOTHER VICTIM CLAIMED BY GAS

New York, October 27.—Two men are dead and three are confined to Reconstruction hospital today suffering from a strange toxic delirium resulting from the breathing of gases in the Bayway plant of the Standard Oil company at Elizabeth, N. J.

Although the second man, Walter Dymock, of Elizabeth, died at Reconstruction hospital last night, no announcement of the fatality was made by the hospital authorities. The first victim, Ernest Oelgart, Jr., also of Elizabeth, died there before he could be removed to the hospital.

T. L. Lewis, superintendent of Reconstruction hospital, early today refused to give any information concerning the condition of the survivors of the mysterious ailment, and made no announcement of the death of Dymock. News of Dymock's death was obtained at his home in Elizabeth.

The Standard Oil company issued a statement which said that the men had become "seriously ill" while at work in the Elizabeth laboratory last week. For weeks, the company's announcement said, these five men had been experimenting with chemicals and gases "in an effort to find a substance which could be successfully used with straight gasoline to overcome certain difficulties of motor car operation."

Dr. Joseph Funk, who treated Oelgart, reported that his death was due to continued inhalation of a gas used in connection with ethylene, which has recently come into wide use as an anesthetic.

ARREST IMMINENT FOR DRIVER OF CAR

accidents, the second—and fatal—accident coming shortly after the first. The Moore car was turned over when a car going in the same direction struck it broadside and knocked Mrs. Moore across the right door of her machine.

Before she had recovered from the shock of the first crash, another automobile crashed by at a high rate of speed, its fender catching Mrs. Moore's body and hurling it into a cobbles-paved gutter. She was killed almost instantly.

The driver of the first car that struck the Moore machine stopped for a short time, but he left the scene of the accident before witnesses obtained his name. His license number was obtained, however, and police sought to locate him Monday.

The driver of the machine which struck and killed Mrs. Moore was described as about 21 years old and well dressed. There was another man in the death car. He was described as a middle-aged, middle-aged man. This car, a roadster, failed to halt when it struck Mrs. Moore.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Moore is survived by two sons, H. R. Moore, of Atlanta, and Cecil E. Moore, of San Francisco, and two grandchildren, H. R. Moore, Jr., and Gordon Moore.

MOTHER CONFESSES TO KILLING HER BABY

Wooster, Ohio, October 27.—Because she believed it would not have a "fair chance," Mrs. Blanche Tobias, 21, has confessed, County Prosecutor J. O. Fritz said today, that she choked her two-week-old baby to death.

The baby was found dead at the county infirmary yesterday where the mother had been staying. The woman, according to Mr. Fritz, said that she thought the infant was "better off."

George Tobias, her husband, was held to the grand jury three months ago on a charge of assault and battery against Mrs. Tobias. They had become reconciled, however.

122d Infantry Officers Plan Club Quarters

Officers of the 122d infantry, "Atlanta's Own" national guard regiment, Monday night voted to authorize a committee to furnish club rooms for an officers' club in the city auditorium. The amount to be spent will reach several hundred dollars, it is said, the committee being empowered to purchase furnishings necessary to equip the several rooms.

A corps of painters, decorators and carpenters has renovated the rooms during the last few days and furniture and necessary furnishings will be purchased within the coming week, officers said.

Plans are under way also for a dinner-dance soon, to be one of the most colorful affairs of the fall season, it was announced at a special meeting of officers. The date and place of the dance has not been decided definitely.

Colonel Charles H. Cox, commanding officer of the regiment, said to officers at the brief meeting which preceded regular drill practice, that with the completion of club rooms along the line decided upon, the regiment will have one of the most luxurious clubs of a military nature in the south.

"We are going to spend some money," he said, "but we are going to have a club that will reflect credit upon its members."

Colonel Cox urged officers to support the monthly publication of the regiment, of which Colonel Oberdorfer is editor-in-chief, and to attend the regular weekly luncheon in the rainbow room of the Ansley hotel.

NEGLECTED NAVY DENIED BY WILBUR

Washington, October 27.—(United News)—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, in his first speech since his recall from the west, flatly denied the charge of John W. Davis that the Harding-Coolidge administration has been inattentive to the needs of the navy.

In a radio speech Monday night commemorating Navy day, Wilbur said: "It does not lie in the mouth of the democratic candidate for the presidency to charge the administration with dereliction concerning the navy when the needed legislation proposed by the administration was defeated by two democratic senators."

Wilbur referred to the action in the last congress of Senator King, of Utah, who moved to reconsider the naval increase appropriation bills after they had passed the senate once, and the filibuster of Senator Pittman, of Nevada, which prevented a vote before congress adjourned.

In his speech Wilbur took no stand on the controversy between the relative value of the battleship and the airplane, only saying that the naval board now investigating the matter "will find that the navy has been fully alive to the new problems involved in aviation."

Defends 5-5-3 Treaty.
"The limitation of armament treaty," Wilbur said, "lived up to by its purpose and spirit, will assure peace in America, and will be one of the finest contributions to world peace. This agreement is one of the good fruits of the war against war."

and is, I believe, the precursor of other like benefits."
"The great hope against war," he declared, "is that the peacefully disposed nations shall be strong. When right and might are on the same side, right will certainly triumph."

Doheny Is Named Party 'Turncoat' By James M. Cox

Knoxville, Tenn., October 27.—Former Governor James M. Cox, of Ohio, defeated presidential nominee of the democratic party in 1920, this afternoon declared that Doheny, a candidate for the vice presidency on the democratic ticket at the 1920 convention in San Francisco, voted for the late President Harding after he had ascertained from "me, as the nominee for president, that I would not send troops into Mexico to protect his oil interests."

DE VALERA LODGED IN JAIL AT BELFAST

Belfast, October 27.—(By the Associated Press).—Eamon de Valera, the republican leader, will have no chance to participate further in the election campaign. After having been arrested in Londonderry Sunday night and brought to Belfast he was charged with contravening the Ulster restoration act, and formally remanded for a week. During this time he will be detained in custody. Pending his trial he will be treated as a political prisoner.

Women Capture Many Headlines In Monday News

Monday was a record day for women in the news. Here is the news about a few of them:

Recommendations of Mrs. Mabel Willibrand, assistant United States attorney general, were found to have caused the resignations of six district attorneys and the expected resignations of four others.

The Countess Karoli entered the United States, after attempts to bar her on charges of "holism."

Mrs. Mabel Reinecke, collector of internal revenue at Chicago, finally agreed to open income tax records for general inspection.

Laura Jean Libbey was buried in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Blanche Tobias confessed the murder of her baby "because it didn't look like its father."

Forty-year-old Mattie Walling returned to Burlington, Ohio, with a husband 56 years old.
Mrs. T. H. Kelly, the "canyon heroine," died at San Bernardino, Cal., after her heroic effort to save the life of her little niece by feeding her the oil from her own blood.
Myrtle Riley, 22, told how her 19-year-old sister, Suzanne, had beaten their aged father to death with an iron bar at Moravia, N. Y.
Vera Simonson sued Earl Carroll for $100,000 in New York, charging the idea for the stage success, "White Cargo," had been stolen from her.
A mysterious Philadelphia woman mailed a judge $2 to atone for "bearing false witness."

Eleven-year-old Ella V. Reed sued a physician for $30,000, charging his operation had robbed her of ability to taste.

Mrs. Blanche Barrymore, wife of John, sued Miss Sophie Treadwell for $200,000, claiming Sophie had damaged her by charges of plagiarism.
One hundred and fifty Irish girls arrived in New York, looking for jobs as maids or cooks.

WALLACE'S BODY IS TAKEN WEST

palbearers were selected from officials of the agricultural department.

The body was escorted from the white house to Union station by members of the cabinet and other high officials of the government. It was placed in one of the two private cars which were reserved for the funeral party. Mrs. Wallace and other members of the family were escorted by white house military and naval attaches to the private cars.

LOWDEN MENTIONED TO FILL VACANCY.

Washington, October 27.—The attention of President Coolidge was turned today to the vacancy in his cabinet, caused by the death of Secretary Wallace, of the department of agriculture, by receipt of several messages asking consideration of various persons for the office. It was made plain at the white house, however, that he would give little consideration to the new appointments, at least until after Wednesday, when burial services are to be held for Mr. Wallace at Des Moines.

Although an early selection is expected to be made by the president, in view of his proposal to get under way in the near future an investigation of agricultural conditions, it is not considered likely the choice will be made before election day, a week from tomorrow.

The name of Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, was among the first suggested to Mr. Coolidge today. John Lee Coulter, president of North Dakota Agriculture and Mechanics college, and Samuel Adams, editor and former president of the American Agricultural Editors' association, are other names mentioned.

Returning to his desk from the funeral of Mr. Wallace, the president received several visitors this afternoon.

AN OBLIGING BEAUTY DOCTOR

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair.

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair:
"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1-4 ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."—(adv.)

Social Calendar of Today Will Divide Interest

The interest of society will be divided today between weddings, dinner parties, teas and bridge parties. The outstanding feature of the social calendar will be the celebration of the eighty-seventh birthday anniversary of Captain James W. English with an elaborate dinner party at the Piedmont Driving Club. The marriage of Miss Mary Sue Jones and William Franklin Barron, of Rome, Ga., will be a beautiful event of this evening, taking place at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents in Druid Hills, and will assemble a large number of relatives and friends.

Miss Hardon Given Beautiful Dinner.

Miss Virgil Hardon, the attractive guest of former Governor and Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, was honored guest at a beautiful dinner at which Mrs. Slaton entertained Monday evening, at their home, "Wingfield," on Peachtree road.

The house was beautifully decorated with bright fall flowers in bowls and baskets placed in attractive arrangement.

In the dining room the long table was covered with an exquisite cloth and had as a central decoration a low bowl filled with yellow, bronze and white dahlias. Light yellow tapers burned in silver candleabra.

Miss Hardon wore a French model of black net, artistically beaded in a bird design in the colors of orange and red.

Miss Locke Weds Mr. Eanes, of Richmond.

Unusual interest is attached to the announcement by Mrs. Lola Glenn Locke of the marriage of her daughter, Frances, to Walter Stuart Eanes, of Richmond, Va., which took place Saturday, October 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Eanes left Monday evening for Richmond and Philadelphia. Upon their return they will make their home in Atlanta.

Emory Chi Phi Give Halloween Party.

One of the loveliest affairs attended upon the gay Halloween season was the annual Halloween party at which the Chi Phi Fraternity at Emory entertained Monday evening at their house on the campus.

One hundred and fifty members of the college set were invited, the honor guests of the occasion including four members from each of the other fraternities and ten members of the Emory faculty with their wives.

Judge Sibley Addresses Meeting of Woman's Club

"Women hold the balance of power in their hands," said Judge Samuel Sibley in a stirring address before the members of the Atlanta Woman's club at their regular meeting Monday afternoon. "There are 5,000,000 women in the United States who are eligible to vote," continued Judge Sibley, "and they should realize their responsibility."

"There are five reasons why women should vote: First, because they have the right to vote; second, because they hold the balance of power; third, because they are more or less independent and have the obligations that men usually have; fourth, because they are very conscientious, and lastly, because they can keep politics clean, if they have a mind to do so."

The speaker urged the women to vote and use their power. He illustrated this point with a very interesting story about a group of Irishmen, who were coming over to this country and one in the crowd was having a merry time aboard ship and would not listen to the warnings of his mates that the ship was about to sink, and replied, "That's all right, let her sink, it's not our ship."

Judge Sibley hoped very much that the women over the country would not be as given in the Irishman about their responsibility in voting in the coming election.

Mrs. Sharp Presides.

Mrs. Norman Sharp, president of the club, presided over the meeting in her usual charming manner and joined Judge Sibley in urging the women to vote in the November election.

Mrs. Sharp brought much inspiration to the club members by relating some very interesting facts she learned during her recent visit to New York. She said her conference with Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers, proved very satisfactory.

"Mr. Hays," said Mrs. Sharp, "is especially fond of good pictures and urges the women of the nation not to attend anything but high-class motion pictures and to tell the theater manager what they think of his screen productions, and it will have its effect."

Mrs. Sharp suggested that the eight departmental chairmen of the club be elected as delegates to represent the Atlanta Woman's club at the State Federation held in Atlanta during the month of November. The motion was made and carried, that this suggestion be adopted. The club is entitled to 10 delegates, and Mrs. Hamilton Douglas and Mrs. D. F. Stevenson were elected to represent the club with the department heads.

Mrs. Sharp also announced the meeting of Philip Worrall left Thursday night for Miami Fla. where they will spend several months.

Mrs. Mary Mann, of Albany, Georgia who has been the guest of Mrs. Tucker on Orme Circle has returned to her home after a week's visit.

The Atlanta friends of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stallworth will be glad to learn that they have taken possession of their new home in Cedar Lane, Westchester county, Bronxville, N. Y.

before numerous organizations of Atlanta with great success. She possesses a very attractive personality and the members of the Woman's club were enthusiastic in their appreciation of Mrs. White's delightful readings.

The following new members were received into the club through the recommendation of the membership chairman, Mrs. W. D. Williamson: Mrs. Eugene Siebert, Mrs. C. S. Nichol, Mrs. C. H. Carnes; courtesy members: Mrs. William S. Sikes, Mrs. Ambrey Motz, Mrs. Hugh H. Ellison, Mrs. Joseph H. Hirsch and Mrs. Carl Davis.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson announced the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra matinee, to be given under the auspices of the Atlanta Music club, while the orchestra is in the city in order that the children might have an opportunity of hearing this wonderful feast of music.

Mrs. Norman Sharp announced the Camp Fire girls tea-dance which will be given Thursday afternoon from 4 until 7 o'clock, in the banquet hall of the Woman's club house.

Prestige

and what it means to the Retail Jeweler

The amount of business transacted by a retail jeweler bears a very definite relation to the prestige he maintains in his community. The customer must have no less faith in the jeweler than in his banker. The Latham & Atkinson business policy was established years ago upon a realization of this fact, and every transaction is made with it in mind. Every purchase MUST be satisfactory, and every article sold must represent true value and dependability.

Great Stage Success Will Be Held Tuesday.

The remarkably successful play, "Rain," which will be presented by the Atlanta Drama league Tuesday evening in a reading by Mrs. W. C. Jarnagin, would probably have long ago appeared on the screen had it not been for the attitude of Will H. Hays, president of the public relations committee, in regard to filming the play.

While it has been a wonderful success as a stage production, Mr. Hays does not think it is a picture possibility. "Rain" is now in its third season with Jeanne Engels. It is said by one of New York's noted critics to be a superb piece of work the collaborators, Miss Clemence Randolph and John Colton, did with the extremely difficult material they had to handle.

"Miss Randolph and Mr. Colton detach the characters from Somerset Maugham's story, 'The Trembling Leaf,' and give them the mobility of vividness and the directness that drama demands," said Ludwig Lewishon in a recent periodical.

The reading of "Rain" by Mrs. Jarnagin will be given in the assembly room on the mezzanine floor of the Biltmore hotel at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. Mrs. Edna Neely, president of the Drama league, is especially anxious that all of the members hear this interesting play, given by one of Atlanta's most talented readers, who is a past president of the local center of the Drama league.

Woman's Civic Club To Hold Meetings.

"INDIVIDUALITY OF HAIR DRESSING"
An Old-Fashioned Hairdress May Be Tastefully Modified

BY MADAME LOUISE
Nationally known authority on hairdress. Trustee of National Hairdresser's association; executive board member of Chicago organization.

You have heard that old-time excuse which Madame X keeps giving while she keeps on looking as old as she is. "I've worn my hair this same way for ten or maybe twenty years," she says, "and I'm not going to change now."

Madame X with her fine features, could be made to look years younger if only some one would show her how to "do" her hair more becomingly. Well, some one has shown her, with the very happy effect attained in the illustration. The hair is arranged in a horseshoe wave, flat to the head, the ears half-covered, and the hair folded under at the nape of the neck. Now, hasn't Madame X gained youth?

(Copyright, 1924, for The Constitution.)
Madame Louise's twenty articles on hairdressing as appearing in The Constitution are now in booklet form. If you wish a copy, please send sixteen cents in stamps to The Constitution, Room 930, 440 S. Dearborn, Chicago.

For the last 18 years, Mr. Fannon, now director of the department of public service of Sherman Service, Inc., production engineers, has made an intensive study of business and industrial conditions, visiting hundreds of factories in all parts of the United States. MISS CORALEE HANGER IS DEAD IN VIRGINIA

BEAUTY CHATS

ANSWERED LETTERS.
Mrs. E. J. S.—When the upper arm is too stout it usually indicates general overweight so that a reduction is advisable. All exercising of the arms and shoulders will help, also swimming and tennis.

A. L. C.—A boy of 18 years with height of five feet, eleven and a half inches, should weigh about 145 pounds. A little more or less weight would not matter at this age, the important thing is the general condition of health.

M. J.—Consult a doctor about the catarrhal troubles. Castile or any other fine soap will do for the skin. Blonds—Complete directions on diet and exercises for reducing would consume too much space to be printed at this time, but I will be glad to mail these to you upon request and receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope for forwarding.

Mrs. H.—Kerosene will kill the active vermin and hot vinegar loosens the eggs from the hair shaft. You must also remove the vermin with a fine-toothed comb kept wet while you do the combing.

Under such circumstances, the child's hair should be cut off, especially as hair grows in very fast at this age, and it would only take a few months before it would be long enough to wear bobbed.

M. C.—A thin coating of powder applied before going out in the sun will protect the skin from direct exposure so there will be less tanning or burning. Use buttermilk or cucumber juice for skin bleaches. I will be glad to send evanish formula if you forward a stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

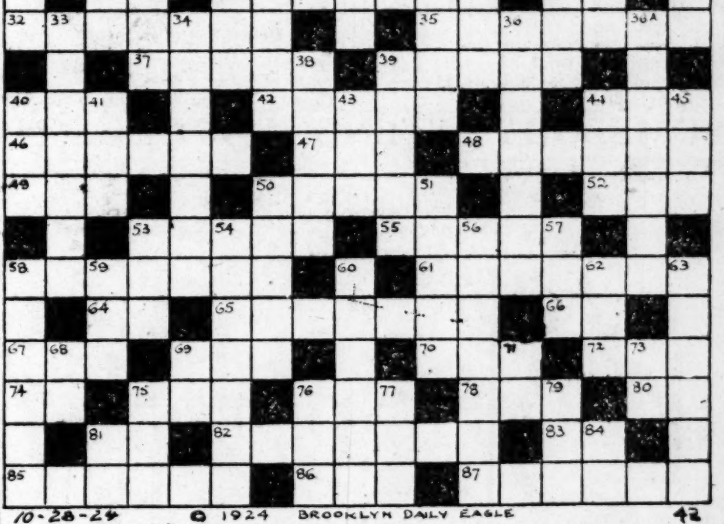

G. K. W.—The trouble with your skin comes from imperfect elimination which you will have to correct before you get rid of the oily skin. Instead of using ointments for complexion, take a daily full warm bath and get the system in order through a simplified diet.

M. N.—Small, congested veins require professional treatment for removal. Margie A.—The dermatologist who removed the moles will likely know the reason for the red and brown spots that have followed; and he will want to be consulted about them so that he can leave your skin free of scars.

To make your hair soft and silky use an egg shampoo. Rub the yolk of an egg into the scalp and leave it on to dry for about 20 minutes; then proceed as with any shampoo by working a lather into the hair made from any fine soap, such as the old-fashioned castile. Whenever your hair is very dry, massage a little olive oil into the scalp the day or night before the shampoo.

Tomorrow—Carefully Cared for Hands
All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Red Riding Hood

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Morgan Schuyler, one of New York's leading philanthropic and social lights, advertising for a young woman to work in her apartment mornings. The advertisement is answered by a girl evidently of birth and breeding. In spite of the fact that she admits a desire to hide her identity, Mrs. Schuyler accepts her on trust and tags her with the name of Hope Emerson.

Mrs. Schuyler's family consists of her mother, Mrs. Van Dora; a young brother, Jim Van Dora, and an older brother, Boris, who is away.

The second morning of her employment Hope faints after receiving a mysterious telephone call. Mrs. Schuyler summons Dr. Horace Osborne. Hope tells the doctor that she is employed during the afternoon hours on East Seventieth street. The doctor offers to drive her there. By a strange coincidence the doctor has an appointment at the house where Hope is employed. He has been called in consultation with two other doctors. The patient is a boy of five years, about whom the entire household mysteriously revolves: the closest guardian is an uncle named Scarwenka. All of the members of this household are foreigners except Hope, who is known here as Sonia. A day or two later a mysterious visitor, Colonel Van Saanen, a man of obvious importance, calls at the Seventieth street house. Hope distrusts him, and she learns that Scarwenka does also. Van Saanen tells Scarwenka that he is going to take the boy away that night. Hope decides to call on Dr. Osborne for help. He accompanies her to the house on East Seventieth street, where the two conspirators find Van Saanen there before them. Dr. Osborne sneaks Hope and the doctor in the room with the child. Dr. Osborne and Hope escape through the window and take the child to a hospital.

INSTALLMENT XXXVIII.

SUPPER FOR TWO.

Dr. Osborne assured Hope that he wouldn't take any chances with the child, and added with a grin, "It's mighty considerate of the Tartar to tough, though. Saves such a lot of explanations. As it is, all we've got to do now is to keep mentioning that attack last winter, and to drop an occasional hint about the unsatisfactory conditions in his home."

"How about tomorrow?"

"Which won't call for any deception," the girl drily added. "I'd better stay here with him tonight," she went on. "I'll have to be off very early tomorrow, but he'll be used to the place by then."

Osborne protested.

"Surely that isn't necessary. He'll sleep like a top, and I have a crack-jack of a night nurse. An equally good day nurse will come on at 7 in the morning. I happened to remember that she left a case today."

He stopped, looking at Hope curiously. The blood had rushed to her face darkly and unbecomingly, mounting to the very roots of her black hair.

"I'm letting you in for a lot of expense," she almost stammered, "and I don't even know how soon I can pay you. I'll see Doctor Phelps at noon—his assistant said he'd be back early, and his office hours are from half-past 11 to 1. I'm hoping he'll help us, or that we can get in touch with one of the foreigners who have come to the house. Or Scarwenka may be able to do something. I suppose you know it was he who opened the gate to let us out," she interrupted herself to explain.

"I inferred as much. As to the financial end, forget it. The boy won't need to be here more than a day or two, and if matters haven't cleared up by the time he leaves I'll take him in at my place, or we can send him to the country. I've an idea it won't be long before we hear from his friends," he added, realizing that she was still distressed by the money complication. "It's plain he's the hub of the situation, and that the others have care enough for him to keep him in that expensive house with all those elaborate precautions, and to call in two or three doctors every time he coughs. So I fancy they'll stay on the job. But the whole thing's a queer mess."

"And, of course," Hope reflected aloud, "Scarwenka must have money for emergencies. There has never been any indication of a lack of funds. The Scarwenkas haven't spent much to live on, but that was plainly a matter of choice."

Her attention interested the doctor because it confirmed his impression that though the girl was with these people she was not one of them. He decided she knew little more than he did of the real purpose they were following.

"Does Scarwenka know where we are?"

"Yes. Of course I had to tell him."

They were seated on stiff hospital chairs near the head of the boy's bed, and the doctor's professional eye observed that his companion's feet were wet. No wonder, ploughing through that snow in pumps and silk stockings. Moreover, her voice was tired and her face pale.

"Look here," he said abruptly, getting up to enforce his orders, "move that chair over to the radiator, where you can put your feet against it and dry them. I've just remembered, too, that neither of us has had anything to eat," he went on as they made the transfer. "After the nurse has come and we've fixed up the Tartar for the night"—she smiled at the ease with which the title fell from his lips—"we'll have some supper. There's a waiting room across the hall, and they can send it in to us."

"That will be rather nice. I hadn't any lunch, either. I didn't wait for it today. And I didn't sleep much last night, so I feel rather done up!"

He frowned.

"Most women are more or less idiotic about taking care of themselves," he commented, "but you go to extremes."

The Tartar, whooped restively, feeling neglected, and the doctor's subsequent attentions to him created a diversion. When the patient quieted down and showed a willingness to go to sleep Osborne's thoughts turned in a new and unpleasant direction.

"How about tomorrow?" He crossed the room to look down at her as she sat with wet soles of the patent leather pumps steaming against the radiator. "You're not thinking of going back to that place, are you?"

She started. He had asked the question with which her own mind was occupied.

"I don't know. I've been wondering. The whole thing is so unusual—I'm trying to think it out." She proceeded to consider it verbally. "Of course I'm convinced that Van Saanen doesn't represent the rest."

"Somehow I'm convinced of that, too," the doctor agreed. "The others seem to have taken pretty good care of the kid."

"I had suspected it almost from the first," Hope continued, "and naturally I hadn't many doubts left after he locked us in. I can't imagine either of the others doing that, though I realize, from all the secrecy they've shown, that they have reasons for keeping the child hidden."

"Naturally one thinks of kidnappers," the doctor muttered, without conviction.

She shook her head. "They're not that. What I'm getting at is that it's the time of the month when some one comes to look us over, to be sure everything is all right. When Van Saanen came, Scarwenka and I naturally assumed that he was the one sent. My first doubt came when I made some remark about expecting a visit, and I could see that it startled him. Though he knew all about us, and how to get in, and what questions to ask, I was almost sure from that moment that he came on his own initiative—that he had not been sent by the others."

"In that case, one of the others will come in a day or two, probably the man called Vasali, and I ought to be there. Besides, isn't it logical to think that Van Saanen has gone? If we're right, he tried something and failed, and he'll have his associates to reckon with and will be afraid of them."

"It's all guesswork—intuition. I prefer to call it—though at moments I seemed to read his very thoughts. I believe it would be perfectly safe to go there tomorrow. I think I'd find the Scarwenkas there, and Mihail, and no one else."

"I rather think so, too," Osborne unexpectedly agreed. "Just the same, we may both be wrong."

"We've been right so far."

"I hope so. But even that isn't certain."

The night nurse arrived, alert and interested. All the nurses, she confided to Hope, liked to be on cases with Doctor Osborne, though he worked there, like a doctor, to death and his manners lacked the high polish to which Dr. Hatch and others had accustomed them. Half an hour later the patient was casually killing giants in an abysmal slumber while Osborne and Miss Emerson ate their belated dinner.

"Anything you've got," the doctor vaguely ordered. "Soup, something hot, coffee of course, and hurry it right along please."

When it came Hope poured his coffee and he served the hot dish, which proved to be chops. She poured his coffee and he served the small table that held the collation, and for the first time both were self-conscious. Osborne put into words the thought that filled their minds.

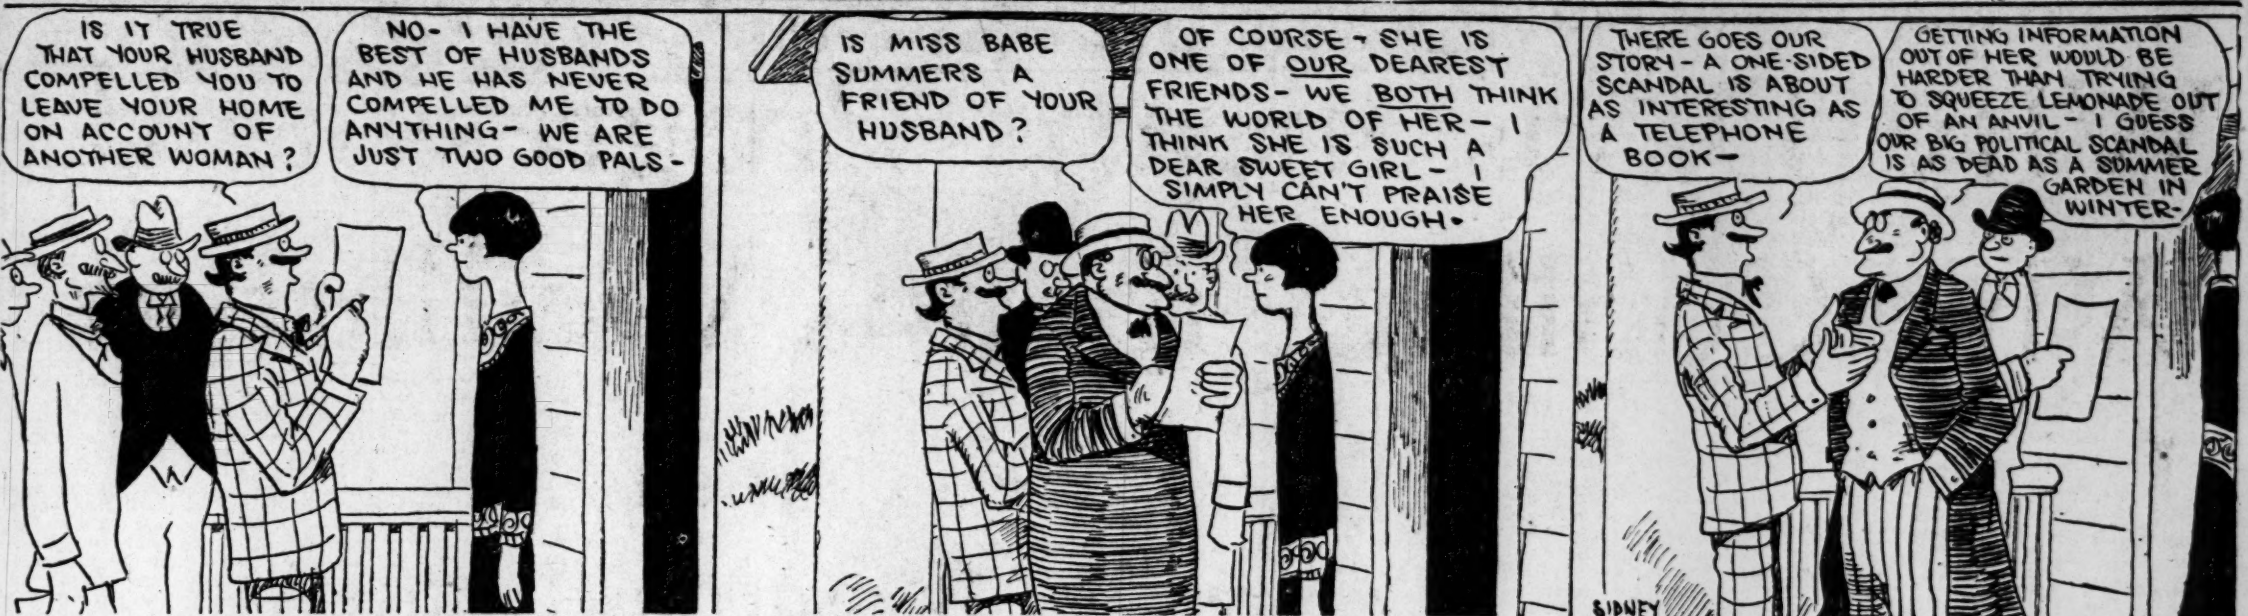

"This is an odd twist of things. If anyone had told me this morning that within twelve hours I'd be a kidnaper and a conspirator—" He grinned at her. "How Hatch would love it all! Why didn't you call on him first?"

"That's a barefaced bid for flattery, and I refuse to rise to it. However, I'll admit that I thought of you first. There's a compliment in that," she kindly added. "If you care to look for it."

The darned old habit knocks you all to pot. For instance, take the case of Mrs. Lot.

It may have been her glands were not all right. At any rate she surely loved a fight. If Lot should say, "My Love, it is my wish You'd cook no more of such and such a dish,"

One thing was certain, that dish would appear At every meal for high onto a year. One day Lot hustled home at half past one.

And cried: "Pack up the old suit case and run! The Angel orders: 'Skip to Hebron's brook.'"

And on your lives don't turn around to look!"

The Missus knew one time had come to do Exactly as her husband told her to. So as they skipped she tried to keep in mind That she must not turn around and look behind:

But so deep-seated was her pesky fault She turned to look, and promptly turned to salt.

Democratic Achievements and Republican Failures

Under the Wilson administration more constructive legislation was enacted in eight years than in any previous fifty years.

The Wilson administration produced the Federal Reserve Act, the greatest single achievement to the credit of any administration, and universally agreed to be the finest financial legislation in the history of the world.

Under the Wilson administration labor was employed steadily for eight years, the wheels of industry kept turning and when Harding was elected President in November 1920, there was not a man out of work who was willing to work.

Then in the three and one-half years following there were two periods of financial depression. There is unemployment today in the industrial districts of New England; the steel mills of the Pittsburgh district have fewer unfilled orders than in years, and failures have increased at an alarming rate.

In eight years of Wilson there were few failures.

In 1921—there were 404 bank failures.

In 1922—there were 277 bank failures.

In 1923—there were 540 bank failures.

During the first six months of 1924 there have been almost three times as many bank failures as during the last three years of Wilson's second administration.

In fifteen states 600,000 farmers have been ruined since 1921, and the number that have mortgaged their farms or are in the hands of Shylocks are beyond estimate.

Today the banks are full of money—idle money, and there is so much lack of confidence that expansion of old enterprises or developments of new ones is not possible.

The following are some of the outstanding legislative enactments during the presidency of Wilson:

★ ★ ★ ★

Federal Trade Commission Act, for the prevention of unfair practices in trade and especially for the correction of monopolistic abuses.

Clayton Anti-Trust Act.

Amendments to the acts establishing and extending the Parcel Post and Postal Savings Bank System.

Underwood-Simmons Tariff Act, repealing the exorbitant rates of the notorious Payne-Aldrich Act. This was the first tariff act in 25 years that was not dictated by selfish interests, and under it domestic and foreign trade expanded to a volume never paralleled before its enactment or since its repeal.

Tariff Commission Act, intended to take the tariff out of politics and enable legislation to be enacted on the subject on a scientific basis.

Income Tax Act, providing a system of graduated taxes upon incomes, based upon the ability to pay.

Inheritance Tax Act, levying an equitable tax on large bequests.

Enactment during the war of the Excess Profits Tax Act, taxing excess or exorbitant profits made out of the war, so as to help defray its expenses.

Farm Loan Act, enabling farmers to borrow money at low rates of interest through the issuance of farm loan bonds.

Smith-Lever Agricultural Extension Act, under which the aid and cooperation extended to the farming industry through the Department of Agriculture has been vastly enlarged.

Cotton Futures, Federal Warehouse and Uniform Grain Grading Acts.

Bureau of Farm Markets and Bureau of Farm Management Act.

Federal Aid Roads Act, through which federal aid and co-operation have been given in the construction of thousands of miles of permanent highways, literally "lifting the farmers out of the mud."

Creation of Department of Labor, with its head as a member of the Cabinet.

Creation of Federal Employment Bureau.

Workmen's Compensation Act.

Eight-hour laws applicable to railroad and federal employees.

Minimum Wage Act.

Establishment of Woman's Bureau in the Department of Labor.

Enactment declaring that "labor is not a commodity" and forbidding human flesh and blood to be dealt in as a chattel.

Act exempting labor and farmer organizations from inhibitions of the Anti-Trust law.

Child-labor law, subsequently held unconstitutional by Supreme Court by vote of five to four.

Vocational Training Act.

Enactment extending and improving the Public Health Service.

War Risk Insurance Act and other measures for the generous and continuous treatment of the sick and disabled who served in the World War.

Seamen's Act providing better conditions on ships flying the American flag and forever ending the virtual slavery of American seamen.

Corrupt Practices Act, aimed at ending the practice of corrupting elections.

Constitutional amendment providing for election of United States Senators by popular vote.

October 9, 1924

Sir:

For thirty years, I have been accustomed to vote as an Independent in our quadrennial elections, selecting my candidate according to the personalities, the issues, and the necessities of the hour.

In the light of the last four years of the Republic's history, no Independent can trust the existing Republican party. He can and does trust the President, but he knows that with all his excellent qualities, Calvin Coolidge is no leader. He can sit on the lid, but he can't keep it down. The Independent voter likes the President's ideas on the essentials of honesty, economics, and practical thrift, but from thrice bitter experience he knows that Mr. Coolidge's relation to Congress is like the weather-man's to a Northeaster -- he watches what happens. That is the simple truth.

John W. Davis comes from a different breed. He can argue -- no man better -- but if needs must, he can fight. His experience with men and measures in this country is wide. Abroad it is immeasurably greater than Mr. Coolidge's. What Mr. Coolidge seeks to learn from maps, a small circle of friends, and Colonel Harvey's reports, Mr. Davis knows at first-hand for himself.

Whoever is elected President, the next Congress will be liberal. Mr. Davis is a liberal. He will not try to dam the flood, but will control it.

Whoever is elected President, the United States will one day bear its share of the world's duties. Mr. Coolidge knows this, and would like to put his shoulder to the task, but the Republican Party says No. But to his party, Mr. Davis will say Yes.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL COMMITTEE

Clement L. Shaver, Chairman

Jesse H. Jones, Director of Finance

John W. Davis' Program

1. Make business better by:

- Lower and fairer taxes.
- Readjustment and lowering of freight rates to help both the shipper and the consumer.
- Opening up foreign markets by insuring world peace.
- Elimination of graft in Washington to restore public confidence.

2. End war.

Davis promises to eliminate "keyhole" and "tiptoe" diplomacy and at the meeting of all the great nations of the world next June Davis promises that, if elected, the United States will be there.

3. Help the farmer.

The Republican party promises another commission to investigate the condition of the farmer and recommend legislation. One commission has already been appointed and has already recommended legislation, but nothing has been done. It will take a new commission a year to report.

Davis promises specific action:

- To adopt an international policy of direct official cooperation which will reestablish the farmer's export markets.
- To adjust the tariff so that the farmer and all other classes can buy again in a competitive market.
- To reduce taxation, both direct and indirect, and to lighten the burden of government by strict economy.
- To readjust and lower freight rates, particularly on bulky agricultural products, which will make markets both for buyer and seller national and international instead of regional and local.
- To establish an export marketing corporation or commission in order that the exportable surplus may not fix the price of the whole crop and to stimulate by every government activity the progress of cooperative marketing.
- To secure for the farmer credits suitable for his needs.

4. Protect labor.

Throughout his entire career Davis has been the friend and champion of labor. He believes in "the right of labor to an adequate wage earned under healthful conditions, the right to organize in order to obtain it, and the right to bargain for it collectively through agents or representatives of its own choosing. These rights . . . must not be impaired either by injunction or by any other device."

New York, October 27.—Belief that the decline which followed publication of the government crop report on Saturday had brought in an increased trade demand, seemed largely responsible for an advance in wall over a cent a pound in the cotton market today. January contracts, which sold off to 22.20 Saturday forenoon, advanced to 22.37 in today's late trading, or 132 points above the closing quotation last week. That delivery closed at 22.50, with the general market closing firm at net advances of 123 to 131 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 20 to 50 points in response to higher Liverpool cables and real demand was not particularly active at the start, but offerings were light and the market showed increasing strength and activity in the afternoon on covering and trade buying. Very little hedge selling was in evidence, while selling otherwise was checked by the belief that there was a good many trade buying orders in the market and comparatively light realizing was absorbed on slight setbacks at midday.

Reports of large export engagements for end-of-the-year and first half of November shipment contributed to the advance which carried Liverpool up to 23.45 and March to 23.90 in the late trading, or 128 to 138 points net higher. The detailed weather reports showed a good deal of rain in the Carolinas and Georgia, with freezing temperatures at a few points in the southwest. These conditions, combined with low frosts of last week, were regarded by some traders as suggesting that Saturday's official crop figures might be accepted as a maximum view of the yield. The factor mainly discussed on the advance, however, was the improving character of trade buying, particularly from abroad, and indications that the crop prospect of around 12-12.5 million bales had not checked the demand from foreign spinners. Late prices were within 6 or 7 points of the best.

Private cables attributed the steadiness of Liverpool to buying to improve trade prospects. Exports today 23,911, making 1,676,732 so far this season. Port receipts 31,246. U. S. Port receipts 1,138,500.

WIDE GAINS AT NEW ORLEANS.
New Orleans, October 27.—The cotton market was very active and strong all through today's session and prices scored an advance of $0.20 a bale and closed at the highest of the day. Decidedly more favorable Liverpool advices than expected, active trade buying, including domestic and foreign, and speculative buying in anticipation of active business after next week's election and reports of greater damage by late frost in the south, were the main stimulating influences.

The market started off with gains of 24 to 26 points and continued to advance with only brief reactions until around noon it stood 73 to 76 points above Saturday's close. After a reaction of 10 to 15 points the market turned strong and the close was at the top, the market ending strong, the first time that term has been used in a long while, at net gains for the day of 124 to 131 points. The strength of Liverpool was attributed to traders in that market taking a bullish view of the government report. Traders on this side seemed more disposed to regard the estimate of Saturday as likely to prove the market and active trade buying was based on the belief that now that the crop is practically known, buyers will be more disposed to take hold in the goods trade with confidence.

Reports of heavy rains in the Atlantic was a contributing influence in the advance. Exports for the day totaled 23,911 bales, of which Houston contributed 29,739. Neither Galveston nor New Orleans cleared any cotton today, although stocks on shipboard total 143,659 bales at Galveston and 45,802 here.

The Day in Finance

Bankers Estimate That United States Steel Corporation Net Earnings for the September Quarter Will Not Be Far From $32,000,000.

New York, October 27.—A sharp decline occurred in stock prices during the early trading followed by a recovery and then another slow decline. Today's lower prices were brought about by professional speculators selling short. The public is not doing anything in the market, brokers reporting without exception that customers are declining to take any part one way or the other until after election.

Idle money continues to pile up here and in the west despite the rush of crop moving. Crops are being shipped to market so fast by farmers to take advantage of existing high prices that an embargo has been placed by some of the railroads on wheat to run until November 1. Speculative Wall Street can see funds being used in the stock market to find employment later in the year after the crop moving period is over to such an extent that a bull market is assured. However, it would not be surprising if stock prices immediately after election sold off first to bring the average price level closer to actual business conditions.

Motor shares were weak following a new price-cut movement. Yellow Cab had a break early in the day of seven points on the company's September quarter earnings statement, showing 88 cents earned for the class B stock against $1.30 for the June quarter and $1.68 for the September, 1923, quarter.

In well-informed banking circles here, it is estimated that the United States Steel corporation's net earnings for the September quarter, will not be far from $32,000,000.

For the June quarter the figures were $50,075,000, for the three months ended September 31, 1923, the figures were $49,958,000 and for the September, 1923, quarter, $47,057,000.

For the June quarter of this year the net of $41,381,000 enabled the company to pay the regular quarterly dividend of $8.000,000. The stock, the extra 50 cents and then repurchase charges for the September quarter. It is expected that the depreciation charges for the September quarter will be smaller than the June quarter, because of the smaller earnings and there will be small surplus remaining after payment of the regular quarterly $1.25 and the extra 50 cents.

A few days ago a prominent Wall Street banker closely identified with the automobile industry was quoted as to the effect that while September showed a decided improvement over August in the automobile industry, October was the automobile industry's poorest month. This information is confirmed in today's announcement of a sharp price cut by the Hudson Motor company, reflecting a growing competition by the automobile manufacturing business. Closed Hudson cars are cut from $1,500 to $1,335 with the Essex closed cars cut from $1,000 to $855.

Great Northern and Northern Pacific both published disappointing September earnings statements. Great Northern's gross earnings were $11,204,000 against $11,716,000 a year ago with net $3,082,000 against $3,508,000. The Northern's gross earnings were $12,000,000 against $12,250,000 with net $2,417,000 against $2,725,000.

Chicago, October 27.—Unexpected sharp upturns in prices at Buenos Aires and Liverpool, together with active export demand in the United States, gave a decided lift today to the wheat market here. Wheat in Chicago closed firm 2-7 3/8 to 3-3 3/8; active bid for wheat, 2-11 3/8 to 2-11 1/2; corn finished 1-8 1/2 to 1-8 3/4; corn 1-4 1/2 to 1-5 1/2; and oats 1-4 1/2 to 1-5 1/2. In provisions, the outcome varied from 27c decline to 15c advance.

New export business today estimated at 2,500,000 bushels of wheat and 500,000 bushels of rice, was an effective help to the maintenance of strength, which the wheat market displayed as soon as trading began. There was a rush to buy at the opening and there was also an evident broadening of demand later whenever the market underwent a sag. Meanwhile, advice from Buenos Aires told of further need of rain, and also pointed to an additional reduction in estimates of the Argentine exportable surplus.

Fresh figures on world supplies and world import requirements were likewise construed as being in favor of traders friendly to higher prices. According to these figures an excess of only 28,000,000 bushels over world needs was apparent. On the other hand, there was an increase of 6,464,000 bushels in the amount of wheat on ocean passage, compared with 5,000,000 bushels a year ago. Domestic crop movement, both south and west, and northwest, remained of liberal volume, and the United States visible supply total 2,400,000 bushels.

Strength which developed in price of corn and oats appeared to be due mostly to the action of wheat. Higher returns were disappointing. There was export business, both in United States and Canadian ports. Responsive to a downturn in hog values, the provision market averaged lower.

With A-B-C Trecness and 1-2-3 Speed After the Winning You Want and Need

We, Too, Have A Little List!

In Gilbert and Sullivan's immortal opera, "The Mikado," the Lord High Executioner sings with much ado about his little list of society offenders who might well be underground.

The Constitution likewise has a little list whose importance should move everybody to burst into song—and this little list isn't such a little one at that. Already it stretches into many columns—and it is growing greater and larger every day.

The one outstanding difference between our list and the Lord High Executioner's is that ours is a list of society BENEFACTORS—in other words, it's the A-B-C Classified Section.

The advertisers who bring all kinds of beneficial opportunities to the Classified Section are very accurately described when termed society benefactors.

Read the A-B-C ads and see for yourself if this isn't so!
